HAINS BROTHERS HELD FOR TRIAL WITHOUT BAIL

Captain Arraigned as Principal and T. Jenkins Hains as Accessory.

BOTH HANDCUFFED

Annis' Slayer, Pale and Unshaven, Goes to Court Without Uniform.

NEW WITNESS IS NAMED

C. E. Curtis Willing to Testify Annis Boasted of His Conquests.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Capt. Peter C. Hains Jr., and his brother, T. Jenkins Hains, were held without bail for the action of a grand jury today on a charge of killing William E. Annis.

They were arraigned in Magistrate Gilroy's court in Long Island City. T. Jenkins Hains is accused of being an accessory to the murder, while the Captain is alleged to be the principal.

Three witnesses testified for the prosecution. Patrolman Charles W. Baker, who arrested the brothers after the shooting, said that when he arrived on the yacht club float Annis was lying there wounded.

Witness Describes Shooting.

Charles H. Roberts, a member of the Bayside Yacht club, testified that he witnessed the shooting helped Annis from the water which was crimson with his blood. Annis, the witnes testified, said to Capt. Hains:

"You have made a horrible mistake."

The witness stated that he attempted to interfere at the sound of the first shot, but that T. Jenkins Hains thrust a revolver into his face and shouted:

"Keep back or I'll kill you!"

Afterward he said T. Jenkins Hains asked him: "What could I do? He was my brother. I have been trying to persuade him from doing this for some time."

At this point, Roberts testified, Capt. Hains interrupted his brother, saying: "Keep still, this is my affair."

Dr. Frey, the coroner's physician described Annis' wounds of which he said there were twenty, four of which would have been fatal.

No testimony was given in defense. The Hains brothers were taken from the Queens County Jail handcuffed together and rode on a street car in the custody of a deputy sheriff to the court.

Capt. Hains, who, when he last appeared in court, wore the uniform of his army rank, today was clad in citizen's clothes and his pallor and unshaven appearance indicated the effects of his confinement in jail.

The name of the hitherto mysterious witness who had represented himself as ready to testify to having heard William E. Annis boast of his conquest of the wife of Capt. Hains, was revealed last night by Gen. Hains. He is C. E. Curtis of Princeton, N. J., and Washington, D. C.

General Shows Letter.

The General made public the letter written to him by Curtis, Aug. 18, which says:

"I heard Mr. Annis make boasts as to his relations with your son's wife on two occasions, in clubs in New York, and once on a yacht near New York. Kindly keep all I have written from all except your attorneys and family, as I dislike notoriety. If, however, it become necessary, I will testify to all important facts in your son's defense."

The General also made public the fact that two negro maids, whom Mrs. Hains had had in her employ during her husband's absence in the Philippines, will be called as witnesses for the defense.

COURT ORDERS OPENING OF THE BALLOT BOXES

Judge Taylor Paves Way for Punishment of Crooked Election Officials.

ACTION TAKEN QUICKLY

Lawyers for Accused Men, Surprised, Obtain a Continuance.

SAGER IS DELIGHTED

Contention of Criminal Attorneys Overthrown by the Jurist.

Punishment of election officials for fraud at the recent primary was brought near by the decision of Judge Wilson A. Taylor, who Friday ordered the ballot boxes and their keys of the Third Ward, Second Precinct, produced in the Court of Criminal Correction next Friday.

The decision, which will apply to the ballot boxes of any precinct where fraud is charged, was handed down by Judge Taylor the minute he convened court Friday morning. The action was so prompt that the lawyer waiting to defend three election officials, about to be arraigned had no time to offer his intended objection.

He obtained a continuance for one week for his clients, and this postponed the opening of the boxes for the same length of time.

In a written opinion, Judge Taylor made clear two important points:

1. That the State Constitution does not guarantee secrecy of the ballot in primary elections.

2. That fraud committed in primary elections is punishable the same as fraud committed at regular elections. He supported both these contentions by ample citations from the Constitution and the statutes.

Sager Highly Pleased.

"It's a fine decision," exclaimed Circuit Attorney Sager after he had listened to the reading, "and no higher court will overthrow it."

Certain criminal lawyers have been predicting that the present fraud cases will have to be thrown out of court, on the ground that the primary election was not really an election, inasmuch as those defeated have the same right to run for office that they had before, if they can get voters to write their names on the ballots.

Judge Taylor cites the statutes against this theory.

In his opinion Judge Taylor said, in part:

"Appellate courts have held that ballots cast at an election are inclosed in secrecy, and that the expression, 'vote by ballot,' means ipso facto a secret ballot.

"But a primary is not an election, in the meaning of the Constitution. Judge Bland in 1903 declared that the word 'election,' as used in the State Constitution, does not include a primary for the purpose of nominating candidates.

Law Protects Itself.

"It therefore follows that the Constitution does not protect the secrecy of the ballot in a primary election. The matter was therefore left with the Legislature. Does the State primary law protect the secrecy of the ballot in primaries?

"Section 31 of the primary law of 1907 provides that 'any act declared an offense by the general election laws shall be an offense at all primaries, and shall be punished as provided in the general election laws.'

"The general election law is thus made to apply to primaries. The law of 1903 declares that the Election Commissioners shall securely keep all ballot boxes for one year, and shall not open them or allow them to be opened except on order of court, in case of contested election, or when it shall be necessary to produce them in the trial of an offense committed under this article.

"The statute therefore expressly directs that the boxes shall be produced and opened. As has been said, the Constitution does not intervene to prevent such action in the case of primary elections."

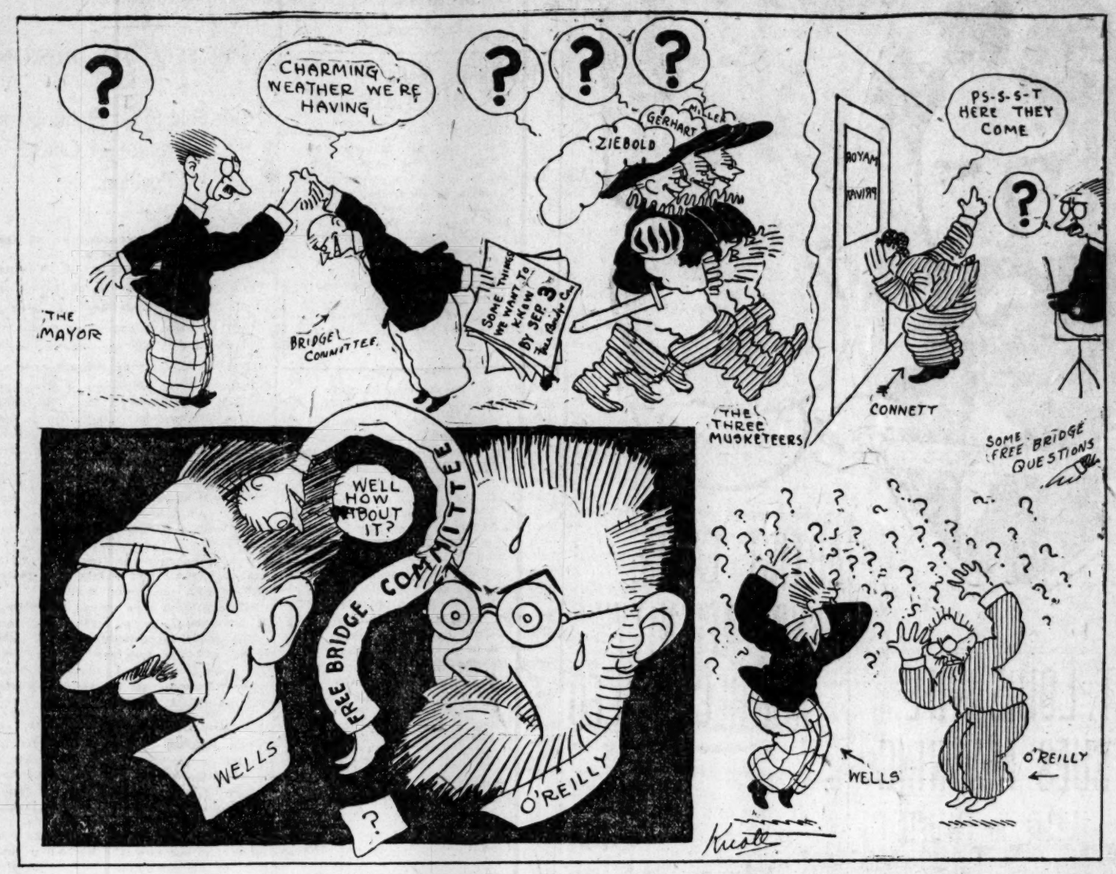

Three Men at the Bar.

At the time the decision was rendered, Walter Guilford, Ernest Von Stade and John Sullivan were at the bar of the court, with their attorney, Hugh Brady of Kansas City, who is said not to be a relative of the St. Louis politician of the same name.

Thomas McGrath, arrested Thursday night, was not in court, being still a prisoner at the Carr Street Station, as

MAYOR SILENT ON QUESTIONS OF THE THREE MUSKETEERS

ONCE STARTED, RUNNER'S LEGS WOULDN'T STOP

St. Charles Business Man, After Eight-Mile Trot, Is Certain He's Spry.

Emil Gibson, a St. Charles, Mo., druggist, now knows that he is as spry as he used to be. Just to find out he traveled eight miles in a dog trot.

Gibson formerly was well known as an athlete. He is long and lithe and built for running, but he hasn't raced for five years. He went on a fishing trip to Dardenne Creek, eight miles from St. Charles, with Ben Kettelhake and Henry Meyer. When they were ready to return home they found that their horse, which they had turned loose to graze, had wandered away.

Kettelhake was sent back to St. Charles for another steed. After Gibson and Meyer had waited several hours for him Gibson decided to go and meet him.

He started out on a trot. As he sped along the road the memory of the old days when he was a long-distance runner came back to him.

Three miles out he met Kettlehake leading a horse.

"Go back and get Meyer," said Gibson. "I'm started and I can't stop. I'm going to trot the rest of the way."

And he did.

He reached St. Charles in less than two hours, and when he turned into Jefferson street he sprinted just to show the natives that he wasn't winded.

"O, I don't know," he said, as he pulled up at his drug store, "I guess I'm the Marathon champion of St. Charles, all right."

MARRIED WOMAN, HOMESTEADER, GETS 500 MARRIAGE OFFERS

Newspapers Accidentally Announce She Is Single and Proposals Pour In.

DULUTH, Aug. 28.—Nearly 500 offers of marriage have been received by Mrs. Anna Rowe, who is waiting in line to file on a homestead in the Fond du Lac reservation, which will be opened here Sept. 15.

The St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth newspapers accidentally published the fact that she was unmarried and immediately the offers began to come in from all parts of the country. Mrs. Rowe is holding the place in line for her husband.

Athos Ziebold, Aramis Miller and Porthos Gerhart, Free Bridge Champions, Discharge Typewriter Fusillade and Then Retire in Good Order.

Mayor Wells announced Friday that he will not answer the written questions which were handed to him Thursday by the subcommittee of the United Free Bridge Committee which called on him to find out why the bridge is not being built, and that he considers the incident closed so far as any further response from him is concerned.

"I told the gentlemen that I was willing to answer any oral questions which they might see fit to put to me," he said to a Post-Dispatch reporter. "I did that and I showed them the documents which indicate my record on the free bridge question."

President O'Reilly of the Board of Public Improvements arrived at his office early and retired into his private room with a set of drawing materials and a book on geometry. This gave rise to the rumor that he will submit his answer in the shape of a diagram.

Committee Bombards Mayor.

Having bearded Mayor Wells in his den and come back alive the subcommittee of the United Free Bridge Committee has reported to that organization that its conference with the Mayor and with President O'Reilly of the Board of Public Improvements was "most harmonious" and that both "expressed regret over the delay in beginning work on the bridge."

Charles F. Ziebold, Owen Miller and Frank H. Gerhart carried the message to Garcia but they didn't deliver it until they knew that the lines behind them were open for a quick retreat. Instead of asking the Mayor the cause of the delay they handed him a list of typewritten questions and retired in good order.

By the time the Mayor had read the questions the three musketeers had fallen back on their own trenches in the Real Estate Exchange and were telling their comrades about their adventures.

Encounter Was Quite Tame.

"Of a truth," said Athos Ziebold, "our encounter with the Mayor had many of the elements of a pink tea."

"Oh, rather, 'twas more in the nature of a kaffee-klatsch," quoth Aramis Miller.

"By the hilt of the sword that swashed at the buckle of my grandfather's knightly belt, 'twas but a tame affair," snorted Porthos Gerhart. "Never a clash of good steel and never a head laid open. Bah! These be puny, puling times."

"And did you, then, do nothing to offend the enemy's dignity?" asked their comrades.

"Nothing," said the three musketeers. "But did you not ask him the questions?"

"Not, as you might say, by word of mouth," spake Aramis. "We had them done into a screed and together we handed them to him shouting: 'All for one and one for all!'"

The Mayor is expected to answer the questions within a week. Another list was handed to O'Reilly, who promised an early reply.

The committee reported that the Mayor and O'Reilly took great pains in showing them all of the records bearing on the free bridge since the inception of the movement to build it. The Mayor exhibited all of the messages which he has sent to the Municipal Assembly, his object being to convince them that he was not opposed to the building of a free bridge, but that he deemed the selection of the Chouteau avenue site unwise.

He laid particular stress on the fact that after Chouteau avenue was selected as the site he showed no further opposition, but did everything in his power to induce O'Reilly to hurry the work.

O'Reilly exhibited the plans of the preliminary work and records showing the progress made in his department.

Questions for the Mayor.

In the list of questions the Mayor is asked whether he considers it his duty to see that all public officials should properly perform their duties and whether he knows of any reason why the work on the free bridge is being delayed.

He is asked to name the official or officials upon whom responsibility for the delay should rest and to state his opinion as to what should be done to hasten the work, either through legislation or by the exercise of his power as Mayor.

He is asked what he knows about the work that has already been done and whether he thinks weekly meetings of the Mayor and other officials would hasten it.

He is asked whether the plans are sufficiently complete to be submitted to the War Department for its approval and as a parting shot he is asked to name, if he can, any person or interest in St. Louis which is opposed to the building of the bridge.

Questions for Mr. O'Reilly.

The set of questions handed to O'Reilly ask him to explain why he thinks the East Side approaches to the bridge should be built on a curve to connect with railroad terminals instead of straight away into the open country so that competing roads could use it.

He is asked to explain his estimates as to the probable cost of the bridge and to tell whether or not his department is responsible for the delay.

The subcommittee reported that from its interviews with the Mayor and O'Reilly it had reached the conclusion that the delay was caused by lack of harmony between the Mayor's office, the president of the Board of Public Improvements and the Legislative Department.

It was announced that Mayor Wells, O'Reilly and City Counselor Bates had promised to attend a public hearing before both branches of the Municipal Assembly if one should be called.

MYSTERIOUS AUTO FIGURES IN BOARD WALK SHOOTING

Assailant of Clubman Riding With Friend's Wife in Atlantic City Did Not Intend Robbery.

SOCIETY WOMAN DENIES HUSBAND DID SHOOTING

Baltimore Financier Probably Fatally Wounded and Unable to Explain Affair---Husband of His Companion Says He thought Wife Was in Boston.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 28.—Charles B. Roberts, the Baltimore clubman and financier who was mysteriously shot while riding in a closed chair on the board walk with Mrs. W. S. G. Williams, is unconscious most of the time in the hospital where he was taken after the shooting. The bullet penetrated the liver and there is little chance of his recovery. He has been unable to make a connected statement regarding the affair, but he says he did not recognize his assailant.

Mrs. Williams says that robbery was not the motive because the man, who was masked, refused to take her chatelaine, which she offered to him. She says the man was not her husband, who has no reason to be jealous of Roberts, as he is an old family friend. The police are investigating the movements of an auto seen near the scene of the shooting.

Mrs. Williams has been closely questioned by the police and so has the negro chair pusher. The stories they tell agree as to details.

Mrs. Williams told the police that the man who halted the chair came face to face with them and was walking slowly. Peering through the glass windows behind which Mr. Roberts and Mrs. Williams sat, the man laid his hand on the chair and shoved one of the windows aside, at the same time showing a revolver.

Thought Man Was Robber.

Thinking the man wanted money, Mrs. Williams declares she offered him her chatelaine bag. The stranger waved it aside and ordered Roberts to "get out." As Roberts got up, Mrs. Williams says she looked hard and saw for the first time that the man was masked. He shot four or five bullets, one of them taking effect in Roberts' side, another penetrating the back of the rolling chair and narrowly missing Mrs. Williams and the others going wild. Then, declares Mrs. Williams, the man cooly walked away in the direction of the "inlet," which is at the upper end of Atlantic City.

The negro chair pusher was too frightened to act and admits he ran away until the man with the revolver was out of sight. He then called Policeman Rust, who assisted Mr. Roberts into the rolling chair to await the arrival of an ambulance.

Says Man Was Not Husband.

Mrs. Williams made emphatic denial when asked whether the man might have been her husband. She asserts that Mr. Roberts has long been a family friend and that her husband knew him as such. She says her husband had never exhibited any signs of jealousy during all the years she has known Mr. Roberts. She added, too, that her husband knew of the presence of Mr. Roberts in Atlantic City.

Mrs. Williams was then asked whether the man who did the shooting made the reported declaration: "You will never take my wife out to dinner again," as he fired the shots. She denied this, as did also the negro chair pusher.

Mrs. Williams was unable to say whether the man tried to kill her also.

"The bullet came uncomfortably close," she said, "but if he wanted to kill me it seems he could easily have done so."

She further declares that she has not the slightest suspicion as to the identity of the assailant.

Mrs. Roberts Nursing Husband.

Mrs. Roberts, wife of the victim, arrived here last night and has been at his bedside at the hospital ever since. She refused to talk of the occurrence.

The police scoff at the theory of highway robbery and hint at sensational revelations upon the arrest of those whom they have under suspicion.

Although the negro at first corroborated the statement of Roberts and Mrs. Williams that the shooter was masked, he has weakened on this point and the police hope to get an admission from him before the day is over that will show that the man who fired the shots was not only unmasked, but that he was a well-dressed man, giving no evidence of being a thug.

Looking for Maryland Auto.

The Atlantic City police are searching for a Maryland automobile for which a New Jersey license is said to have been issued the day before the shooting. It is expected to find a trail thereon to lead them to Baltimore.

Witnesses have been found who said an automobile stopped a short distance from the board walk where the shooting took place a few minutes before the affair. A few minutes later the chauffeur who sat waiting took on a passenger and drove away at top speed.

The evident determination of Roberts to throw a veil of mystery about the affair, has increased the suspicion of the police that there is nothing in the theory first advanced by the victim that he was shot by a would-be highwayman.

Though the shooting occurred Wednesday night while the couple were riding alone in a closed chair on the board walk, the matter did not become known generally until late yesterday, when a negro chair man became talkative and told how the assailant had stopped the chair, ordered Roberts out and then shot him after which he dashed off into the darkness.

Spent Evening Together.

The shooting ended an evening which Roberts and Mrs. Williams had spent together in the grill of the Hotel Shelburn and on the board walk. Early Wednesday evening Roberts and Mrs. Williams entered the grill room together and had dinner. They sat at the table until about 10 o'clock, being kept indoors by the rain.

Then Roberts called a closed double chair with a negro attendant. He and Mrs. Roberts entered it, closed the curtains to keep out the mist and the negro started with them along the board walk toward Rhode Island avenue. Because of the rain the walk was almost deserted.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 28.—Mrs. William E. G. Williams has for years been prominent in Baltimore society. She was before her marriage Belle Beford, the daughter of Thomas Beford, whose business house is one of the pioneers in the leather and hide industry in the country. STREET SINGING BY RESCUE HOME GIRLS FORBIDDEN

Police Stop Meetings Where Collections Are Taken by Children.

A MOTHER COMPLAINS

Girl Declares She Was Improperly Fed and Is Taken From Mrs. Otto.

After Grace Vivian Taylor, 18 years old, had been taken away from Mrs. M. E. Otto, who conducts rescue homes for women and girls, and had been returned over to her mother, Mrs. Marion Reed of 1017 North Leffingwell avenue, the police announced that the girls from Mrs. Otto's homes would not be permitted to hold any more religious meetings on street corners.

Detectives were assigned to prevent the meetings and the collections which were a feature of the services.

The Taylor girl returned to the rescue home at 2937 Morgan street after she had been taken from Police Headquarters by her mother. Her half sister, Hazel Reed, 14 years old, also is an inmate of the home.

Mrs. Marion Reed told a Post-Dispatch reporter Friday that Grace was improperly fed and practically was a prisoner while she was an inmate of the rescue home operated by Mrs. Otto at 2937 Morgan street.

"Four years ago my daughter was converted at a meeting in the Union Mission at 1922 Franklin avenue," said Mrs. Reed, "and she was asked to go into the rescue home. She told me that Mrs. Otto promised to provide good food and clothing for her, and to see that she obtained music lessons from a good teacher. Grace was very anxious to cultivate her voice.

"The music lessons were few and far between. The girl had to work hard all day about the house, and at night, often when she was sick, she was forced to go out on the streets and sing. She told me that she had to do this sometimes when she was so tired she could hardly walk.

Complained of Food.

"Grace complained about the quality of the food served to the girls in the Rescue Home. She said that often they went on 'short rations' rather than eat the meals provided for them.

"She said the girls were not allowed to leave the home excepting by permission, and that Mrs. Otto would not always give this permit."

Mrs. Reed is a widow. Her first husband, whom she divorced, is living in St. Louis County.

Mrs. Otto denies that the girls are poorly fed and are held prisoners in her rescue home.

"I am being persecuted by the police," she said to a Post-Dispatch reporter. "I am surprised that the city officials would stoop to a thing like this. I am trying to save women, not harm them and it seems strange that the police would interfere with a work like that.

"My rescue home is not a prison. There are, of course, certain restrictions placed on the inmates, and if they stay there they must abide by them. I do not permit the girls to leave the house whenever they want to and go wherever they like. I do that for their own protection.

"Any girl in that rescue home, however, can go back to her own home whenever she wants to if she goes back to stay."

Promises to Pay $100 Fine.

Mrs. Otto said she would pay the $100 fine imposed on Oscar S. Matthews, who held Charles Kellar while Mrs. Otto whipped him with a buggy whip.

Kellar's wife is one of Mrs. Otto's co-workers in the Union Mission, and Kellar told the Court that he blamed Mrs. Otto for his unhappy domestic affairs. He and his wife are separated.

There was a dramatic scene in Chief Creecy's office Thursday evening when Mrs. Otto called to demand the prosecution of Helen Gaffney, who escaped from the rescue home, on a charge of theft.

Mrs. Otto was accompanied by a pretty girl in short skirts. Chief Creecy heard Mrs. Otto's story and then turned to the girl.

"What is your name?" he asked.

"Vivian Taylor."

"How old are you?"

"Eighteen."

"Where are your parents?"

"They are living here in the city. They are separated."

"What's your father's name."

The girl hesitated.

"John," she replied.

Sent to Detention Room.

"Take this girl to the detention room and tell the matron to hold her until further orders," said the Chief to a policeman.

When the girl had left the room, Chief Creecy said to Mrs. Otto:

"Is she telling the truth?"

"No," said Mrs. Otto. "She is not. Her father is not in the city."

"You are a Christian woman, are you not?"

"I am."

"You are engaged in the work of rescuing fallen girls?"

"Yes."

"You take them to your rescue home and try to make good women of them?"

"I do."

"Do you teach them to lie?"

"Of course not."

"Did you teach this girl to lie?"

"Certainly I did not."

"You heard her lie to me?"

"Yes."

Chief Will Investigate.

"So you come here to prosecute a girl and you tell me that you are a Christian woman, rescuing fallen girls and making good women of them, and you let [illegible] of those girls from your home lie to me without attempting to stop it? [illegible] in your charge of Vivian Taylor, and she won't go back to your home until I am satisfied that that is the answer for her."

The Taylor girl's first name is Grace, according to her mother.

Building inspectors from the Health Department made an examination of the Union Mission's rescue homes at 2937 Morgan street and 3014 Morgan street, Friday morning. They announced that they found the sanitary conditions satisfactory. All the plumbing and bedding was in good condition, they said.

the result of a misunderstanding about his bond.

McGrath appeared in court Thursday morning and gave a $1000 common law bond, with Charles L. Geraghty as bondsman, but Judge Taylor, in signing the bond with a number of others, did not learn that the defendant was one of the accused election officials. When policemen caught McGrath at Cass avenue and Collins street Thursday night, and he showed them the bond, they called up Judge Taylor.

As he did not remember having signed the bond, McGrath had to stay locked up all night, although Justice Jimmy Miles nearly tore up the pavement around Seventh and Carr streets in an effort to get him released.

William Gamache, accused in an information of the same offense as the other four, signing fraudulent returns, has not been caught.

Judge Taylor's decision is contrary to that rendered a few days ago by Charles Claflin Allen of the Criminal Division of the Circuit Court, who refused to order the ballot boxes opened. At that time the informations against election officials had not been issued.

Fraud Charged in Clayton.

Five primary election contest suits filed in the Circuit Court at Clayton, allege that judges deliberately credited votes cast for one candidate to the vote of the other. The suits are those of Buell L. Matthews, who contests the nomination of William Hoeber for the Legislature from the First District; William J. Preiss, who contests the nomination of Herman H. Hackman for County Judge from the First District; Peter Huthmacher, who contests George Lehman for the nomination for Judge of the County Court in the Second District; Louis E. Strothkamp, contesting George Herpel for Treasurer, and Sebastian Vogel, contesting the election of Henry Heinemann for Central Committeeman from Bonhomme Township.

MILES WANTS A CHANGE OF CLIMATE FOR SAGER

Justice Angered When Detectives Inquire at His Home About Primary Election.

"You tell Sager I said he could go to hell!"

This was the message sent by Justice Jimmy Miles through two detectives, investigating the Third Ward primary returns, who called Friday at Miles' home, 1438 North Ninth street, to ask whether all the voters registered from the house lived there.

Miles refused to give the detectives any information.

After his remark had been communicated to Circuit Attorney Sager, the latter said he would cause Miles to be subpenaed for appearance before the grand jury. Sager thought Miles might consent to tell the grand jurors what he would not tell the detectives.

Sager wishes to know whether Mike A. Maher, Tom Maher and Ben Horracks live under Miles' roof. The list of voters shows them as residing there.

ST. LOUIS WIFE SUES MANNING FOR A DIVORCE

Romance of Miss Gertrude Wagenman Shattered in Chicago.

The romance of Miss Gertrude Helen Wagenman of St. Louis, daughter of the late J. A. Wagenman, and Robert Courtland Manning of Buffalo, N. Y., which included a picturesque elopement and a wedding at the "Little Church Around the Corner," in New York, has been rudely shattered and came to a disastrous ending in Chicago Friday when Mrs. Manning appeared in Judge Mangan's court and asked for a dissolution of her marriage.

Mrs. Manning is living with her mother in Chicago. The whereabouts of Manning are unknown. When an attempt was made to get service upon him in Buffalo it was stated he was on an automobile trip somewhere in the West.

In her petition Mrs. Manning charged her husband with cruelty and nonsupport, and stories have been current of midnight suppers with chorus girls.

Claims Husband Struck Her.

The couple were married in December, 1906. Miss Wagenman met Manning at a dinner in Buffalo, and he afterward came to St. Louis. She went East to take a younger sister to school in Washington and by appointment met Manning at the Manhattan Hotel in New York. They were married quietly and the family here knew nothing of the elopement until afterward.

One of the incidents of cruelty alleged in the petition recites that Manning struck his wife in a public restaurant in Buffalo after an altercation with a waiter.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MONROE, N. Y., Aug. 28.—Ferdinand Pinney Earle, the artist, and his bride of a year, who was the original "affinity," are reunited at their mansion on the top of what the citizens of Monroe have called "Affinity Hill." Their 3-weeks-old child is in care of a nurse there.

The reconciliation, following a charge brought against Earle by his mother-in-law to the effect that he had abused his wife, is only another step in the vagaries of the husband, who, it is asserted, charges the erratic course of his marital career to his artistic temperament.

It was declared here today that Mrs. Earle's mother was to join the artist's household as a permanent member of the family. What effect this will have is awaited with interest by the villagers here. It was Earle's mother-in-law who brought the charges of mistreatment against him.

People here do not believe that the case against Earle will be prosecuted. The home of Earle, which was guarded at night by two huge mastiffs, is without their services now. A neighbor who heard Mrs. Earle's screams for help the other night took up a shotgun and started for "Affinity Hill." The mastiffs barred his way and he killed them both.

When he arrived Earle declared, at the door, that there was nothing the matter. That was all he would say to interviewers today.

COMPERS CALLS CANNON THE MEPHISTOPHELES OF POLITICS

Labor Leader Declares It Is Duty of Good Citizens to Defeat Speaker.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, leaves Washington today for an extended trip through the west and southwest. He told the Post-Dispatch correspondent today that he will make many speeches for Bryan during the next two months. All of them will be under the auspices of organized labor and not at strictly Democratic gatherings. On Labor day he will be the principal speaker at a mammoth gathering at Danville, Ill., the home of Speaker Cannon.

"It seems to be the thing to refer to Mr. Cannon as 'genial Uncle Joe,'" said Mr. Gompers, "but I call him the Mephistopheles of American politics, and I consider it the patriotic duty of every right-minded citizen to do all he can toward bringing about the close of the gentleman's political career next November."

KILLS MAN IN CROWD OF CARNIVAL MERRY-MAKERS

Shot From Missourian's Revolver Singes Eyelashes of Girl Nearby.

MACON, Mo., Aug. 28.—Henry Ray shot and instantly killed Harry Davis in the center of a carnival crowd of several hundred persons last night. Ray said that Davis became angry at him over something, he didn't know what, and threatened to kill him.

Davis' body fell across a baby carriage, and the ball from Ray's revolver singed the eyelashes of a girl standing near him.

SHANNON SCORES MACK IN COMING OUT FOR STONE

Kansas City Folk Leader Believes Such Action Is Ill-Advised.

FOLK THINKS MACK HAS PLENTY TO DO

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 28.—I doubt that Mr. Mack is correctly quoted as he has, I suppose, all he can do in attending to the business of chairman without meddling in this contest. Of course, Missouri Democrats would resent such unwarranted interference.

JOSEPH W. FOLK.

The Post-Dispatch also wired to Chairman Mack for verification of the report and to Senator Stone for an expression, but neither has replied.

Joseph B. Shannon of Kansas City, one of the Folk leaders in Missouri, declared that if National Chairman Norman E. Mack had declared for Senator Stone against Gov. Folk in the senatorial race, he was "playing poor politics and interfering where he does not belong."

Dispatches Friday said that Mack, on arriving in New York to open headquarters at the Hoffman House there, conferred with former Gov. Lon V. Stephens and was elated to find that Stephens was out for Stone.

"I doubt if Chairman Mack really expressed himself as favorable to Stone," Shannon said at the Southern.

"It will be a good idea for the National Committee, I think, to keep its hands off the senatorial fight in this State. The people of Missouri are fully able to decide whom they want to represent them in the United States Senate, without any suggestions from men from Buffalo, N. Y., or other distant spots."

What Carlisle Thinks.

James L. Carlisle, the new chairman of the Board of Election Commissioners, and one of the Governor's closest political and personal friends, said:

"If Mr. Mack said what he is quoted with having said, he is neither a good politician, nor a good Democrat. I am not at all ready to believe that he made any such statement.

"In connection with his calling Dave Hall to Chicago for a conference, it gives the impression that he is interfering in State affairs. If he is, then he is going beyond his province as National Chairman. In doing that, he cannot help the Democratic party in Missouri.

"It is not a question whether or not Stone shall be re-elected, the issue is whether the acts and administration of Gov. Folk, the best Governor Missouri ever had, shall be approved.

"If Stone is re-elected, it will mean a rebuke by the lawless element to Gov. Folk and sound reform.

"I do not believe that the Democratic party of Missouri will forget the man who took the police of St. Louis out of politics, who threw gamblers out of the State, and who has given Missouri its best administration.

"If Mr. Mack would visit some of the political meetings in Missouri, he would at least have to admit that the State is divided."

F. W. LEHMANN IS SELECTED HEAD OF BAR ASSOCIATION

St. Louisan Is Choice of Nominating Committee of Lawyers' Convention.

Frederick W. Lehmann of St. Louis will be the next president of the American Bar Association. Press dispatches from Seattle, Wash., where the lawyers are in convention, state that the Nominating Committee's formal report recommends him for the office, and the report was adopted, which assures his election.

Jacob M. Dickinson of Chicago is the retiring president. The convention placed him on the Executive Committee.

The Nominating Committee recommended John W. Hinkley of Baltimore for secretary of the association, and Frederick E. Wadham of Albany, N. Y., for treasurer.

Under the association's rules the Executive Committee will convene at the call of the president—probably during the Christmas holidays—and select the next annual meeting place. Detroit wants the convention and probably will get it.

THIRD MYSTERIOUS OFFER MADE FOR NEW YORK TRIBUNE

Syndicate Is Reported to Have Made a $2,000,000 Proposition to Whitelaw Reid.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—The third offer within a year has just been made for the purchase of the New York Tribune. Speculation is rife today as to just who are the men behind the syndicate which purposes buying the Tribune from Whitelaw Reid, the present owner. It is understood the price offered was $2,000,000.

It is rumored that the men back of the syndicate are opposed to the Roosevelt policies.

"CUT THE DOG LOOSE," SAYS MAN AS HE IS HANGED

MIAMI, Ok., Aug. 28.—John Hopkins was hanged here today for the murder last January of Lena Craig, an 18-year-old schoolteacher.

"I am an innocent man; cut the dog loose," exclaimed Hopkins just a moment before the trap was sprung.

Hopkins' body was shipped to Seneca, Mo., for interment.

GIRL WITNESSES AT GOW HEARING PICNIC ON LAWN

Young Women Are Ready to Testify as to Character of Minister.

EXPECTED TO RESIGN

Pastor Said to Be Fighting for His Name, Not for Church Position.

From a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

HANNIBAL, Mo., Aug. 28.—Twenty young women, residents of towns in which the Rev. Clyde Gow has been a pastor, are here to appear as character witnesses before the ecclesiastical court trying the minister on charges growing out of the dying statement of Miss Lizzie Gleason of Elsberry, Mo. The young women are not permitted inside the church, where evidence is being taken, so they spend their time on the lawn in front of the building.

Masculine admirers of the young women help them to pass the time pleasantly and keep them supplied with sandwiches, cake and candy. The scene on the church lawn resembles a picnic. The accused minister frequently visits the gay crowd and indulges in pleasantries with the young women.

Each witness who leaves the church is surrounded by a throng who ask many questions concerning the testimony and the progress of the trial. The hope is universal among the character witnesses that the young minister will be acquitted.

Minister Expected to Resign.

The Rev. Mr. Gow is expected to resign from the ministry in case he is acquitted by the ecclesiastical court. While he has steadily refused to make any statement one of his close friends declares that he realizes that his usefulness as a minister is ended and that he is fighting now for his honor, and not for his position.

The ecclesiastical court held a long session at which many character witnesses were examined. At adjournment it was announced that the taking of testimony would begin again at 2 p. m. today and that it was hoped to have all the testimony in by tonight.

The committee, however, is not expected to be ready to report until tomorrow.

Dr. C. P. Powell of Elsberry, who assisted in performing the autopsy on Miss Gleason's body, testified that no operation was performed upon Miss Gleason, and that she was in no condition calling for an operation.

Physician's Testimony Positive.

Dr. Powell was severely cross-examined by the Rev. Dr. Anderson, who is prosecuting Mr. Gow, but his testimony remained practically unshaken.

"From your examination, what would you say caused Miss Gleason's death?" Dr. Powell was asked by the defense.

"Death was caused by peritonitis," was the reply.

"What caused the peritonitis?"

"That is difficult to say."

"Were there any evidences of an unlawful operation?"

"I can answer positively there were no evidences of such an operation, and furthermore, there were no evidences that Miss Gleason had recently been in a condition calling for such an operation."

It was stated today that Mr. Gow will not take the stand in his own defense, owing to a fear that he may prejudice his interests in the criminal charge he is to face in Mexico next month. Should he testify before the ecclesiastical jury the prosecuting officers in the criminal court would be enabled to get a complete outline of his defense.

SPLINTERED BONE OF LEG BOUND TOGETHER WITH WIRE

Surgeons Perform Remarkable Operation to Save Boy's Limb From Amputation.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Harlem hospital surgeons, to save the right leg of Leon Garrodin, 6 years old, from amputation, drilled holes through the bone of the broken member and successfully drew the ragged and splintered edges together with silver wire. The operation is a most unusual one.

The bone of the boy's leg was so badly shattered that there seemd no way of saving his limb.

The child was on the operating table for an hour and a quarter, but, according to the surgeons, he is none the worse for his trying experience. It is believed the boy's leg will eventually be as strong as his unfractured limb.

Animal That Bit Girl Will Be Watched for Rabies.

A dog belonging to Tony Frich of 4764 Easton avenue was sent to the observation ward of the City Bacteriologist's department Friday to be examined for traces of rabies. The dog will be shot if indications of hydrophobia are found.

The dog bit Hulda Helm, 11 years old, of 4762 Easton avenue Thursday afternoon while the child was walking along the street. Under the order issued recently by the Health Commissioner, the police could not destroy the animal before it had been examined by the Health officials.

DAUGHTER OF FORMER MAYOR ELECTED CARNIVAL QUEEN

MISS OTTILLIA BOSEN

Miss Otillia Rosen of Edwardsville Had Two Close Competitors.

Miss Otilla Bosen was declared the queen of the Red Men's carnival at Edwardsville in a contest which closed Thursday night.

The competition was keen and the balloting was kept secret. There was deep interest, and the result was applauded by thousands when the announcement was made by Attorney C. E. Gueltig, corporation counsel of the city.

Until Thursday evening the three leaders were separated by less than a hundred votes. The final tally was: Miss Bosen, 17,574; Miss Ruth Appogast, 8840; Miss Clara Darth, 5085.

Miss Bosen was at a party at the time and did not know of her success until she returned home. She is a striking brunette, a daughter of former Mayor N. E. Bosen of Edwardsville and is secretary of Judge William P. Early.

The prize was a large diamond ring.

foremost banker of his day in this city. Mrs. Williams' sister, Mrs. Walter Prescott Smith, is now at Narragansett Pier.

Charles B. Roberts comes from old and distinguished Maryland stock, his ancestors having been among the first settlers in Carroll County. For the past 14 years he has been in the hardware supply business, and he is now the president and treasurer of the National Supply Co., which he helped organize about twelve years ago. In 1894 he married Miss Mary G. Sloan, youngest daughter of the late James Sloan Jr., who for years was the president of the Farmers' and Merchants' National Bank and a director in the B. & O. Railroad.

Mr. Roberts has a winter residence at 702 St. Paul street and a summer home near Lutherville. He is a member of all the leading clubs of the State, including the Maryland, Baltimore, Country and Eldridge Hunt, and has a host of friends. Mrs. Roberts, with her four children, had gone to New Hampshire.

William E. G. Williams was found this morning at his home at Long Green, Baltimore County. He said he felt satisfied the woman with Mr. Roberts was not his wife, whom he believed to be in Boston. Mr. Williams said that Mr. Roberts is his warm friend and he is sorry to hear of the misfortune that has befallen him.

For a number of years the Roberts and Williams families have been on intimate terms, the heads of the two households being of approximately the same age and moving in the same circles of society. In view of these relations it was pointed out by some of Mr. Roberts' friends that his meeting Mrs. Williams and riding with her in the rolling chair was quite in keeping with the friendly relations their two families enjoyed.

The husband of Mrs. Williams returned from a two-months' trip to Europe last Monday. He said that he saw Mr. Roberts last Tuesday night for the first time since he returned home and told him how glad he was to see him. Mr. Roberts did not go to Atlantic City until the next afternoon.

Telephones to His Wife.

Williams came from his country place this morning, and, after he had talked with his wife at Atlantic City over the telephone, his associates said Mrs. Williams would return to Baltimore this evening. Mrs. Williams had been motoring with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Deford Jr., in the Berkshire Hills before going to Atlantic City, where her three children with their maids had been for two weeks.

Charles Willcox, an associate of Roberts in business, returned to Baltimore today and declared he had talked with Mrs. Williams concerning the shooting. Mrs. Williams insisted, declared Willcox, that the assailant of Roberts said he wanted Roberts' money as he opened the window of the chair.

VETERAN PATROLMAN IS DEAD

Phillip Florreich Became Member of Force in 1870.

Phillip Florreich, 68 years old, a Civil War veteran and a member of the St. Louis police force, died Thursday night at his home, 2825 Sheridan avenue, after an illness of three weeks. He had been a patrolman since 1870, and at the time of his death was attached to the Manchester Avenue Station.

Patrolman Florreich was a member of Gen. Fremont's bodyguard. He was present at the surrender of Camp Jackson and took part in a number of battles during the Civil War.

BUDDING BOXER IS DEFEATED BY POLICE "RINGER"

Negro Dwarf Showed Onlookers He Was Handy With the Gloves.

Running an elevator is not the best method of training for a prizefight. Griffith Yore knows this now.

"Grif" Yore is the elevator boy at Police Headquarters, and he has, or at least did have, serious ambition to become a pugilist. In the assembly room at Central District Station there is a pair of boxing gloves which the policemen use now and then to keep in trim. Once in a while Grif donned the gloves and "took on" a copper in a friendly bout.

Thursday night a negro dwarf wandered into Central Station and struck up an acquaintance with Grif, who immediately started on the subject of sparring. The negro said he didn't know much about the game, but he was willing to be knocked about some if he could get the price of a drink.

Biff! "That Was Nothing!"

Grif saw a fine chance to distinguish himself and invited the negro into the assembly room. Several policemen followed to see the fun. The gloves were donned and Grif, with a wink at the police, started after the negro. There was some feinting and then the negro handed Grif a stiff punch in the jaw which sent him reeling to the floor.

"I forgot myself that time," said Grif, smiling, as he staggered to his feet. "It was all my fault. I gave him an opening."

The police chuckled as Grif started for the negro a second time. There was some more swinging and ducking. Grif landed a light tap on the negro's nose and in return received an uppercut that sent him to the floor a second time. He was slightly dazed when he regained his feet, but still game.

"That was nothing," he said with a half-hearted smile. "I could have avoided that had I wanted to. You've got to rough it a little bit in this game."

Again Grif went after the negro. A few blows were struck, but they all landed on Grif. He began doing a whirling dervish act and was punching big holes in the air when the negro landed a stiff one on the point of Grif's chin which sent him a few feet into the air. When he staggered to his feet, he removed the gloves from his hands and threw them away.

"I've got to look after the elevator," he said, and disappeared.

In a burst of confidence Friday one of the policemen gave it out that the negro was a "ringer."

"He was an ex-prize fighter," said one of them, "and at one time was the best fighter in the 120-pound class. Grif went up against an awful game."

WOMAN ACCUSES MAN SHE JILTED IN POLICE COURT

Amazonian Complainant Tells How Pim Entered Flat and Searched It.

Revolvers and stilletos have no place in the armament of Dan Cupid, a bow and arrow being amply sufficient for the purposes of love, as F. W. Pim found to his sorrow when he was fined $250 in the Dayton Street Police Court Friday on complaint of Mrs. Lydia Horn, 4928 Page boulevard.

Mrs. Horn, a blue-eyed, brown-haired young woman of Amazonian proportions, frowned severely at Pim as she told how he entered her flat Thursday evening and insisted on searching it.

"Mr. Pim and I formerly were engaged," Mrs. Horn explained to Judge Pollard, "but four days ago I broke off the engagement and told Mr. Pim I was going to New York Sept. 1 to take a position.

"Well, he fussed and stormed and I told him not to come around any more. I hoped after that he'd leave me alone.

Had a Big Revolver.

"But he didn't. Last night he rang the bell, and I went to the door. There was Mr. Pim, and he flourished that big revolver in my face and told me I would be dead in five minutes. It nearly scared me to death.

"He pushed past me and tried to search the flat. He said he wanted to see if there was a man there. There wasn't, of course, Judge. Mrs. Marshall, who lives there with me, tried to stop him, and he threatened her. While he was doing that I ran out and got the policeman."

Mrs. Marshall corroborated this with harrowing details of how frightened she was.

Pim told a regretful story of how he had tried to drown his sorrow over the broken engagement in strong drink, and wasn't quite sure what he had done when he went to the flat.

Pim is 28 years old and a member of a well-to-do family in St. Louis County. He lives at Rock Hill in Webster Groves, and does clerical work for a railroad.

JUSTICE SENT DUN TO WOMAN MENTIONING SUIT

Marty Moore Acted for Moving Company Which Had $12 Claim.

SAYS LAW PERMITS

Declares if Debtor Settles Up He Avoids Costs of Litigation.

The case of the J. H. Foster Storage and Moving Co., against Mrs. Julia Collins of 4002 Evans avenue was continued in Justice Spies' Court Friday, to Sept. 3, on account of the absence of the Justice from the city.

The moving company is suing for $12 which a spry competitor prevented it from earning by moving Mrs. Collins' household effects. Before suit was filed an attempt was made to get the money by using the court of Justice Marty Moore as a collection agency.

In July Mrs. Collins lived at 238 South Newstead avenue. When she decided to move she called at the Foster company's office, 2723 Laclede avenue. She was told that the price was $14. In the store of Wagner Bros., 2746 Laclede avenue, she mentioned casually that she was going to move and they offered to move her for $12.

Competition Was Lively.

She accepted the offer and notified Foster. He sent a man to see her. He met the Wagner price and assured her that the work of the Foster company was very superior. She signed a contract agreeing to pay th Foster company $12 and notified Wagner that the thing was off with him.

He sent a man around, who convinced her that the Wagner service was just as good as that of the Foster company. To clinch the thing he gave her a written guarantee that she would get a new $300 piano if hers was damaged.

The Wagners did the moving and were paid $12.

In a little while Mrs. Collins received a notice from Justice Moore's office. It bore Justice Moore's name in big black type at the top and his signature at the bottom. It set forth that unless $12 was paid, her things would be seized, a guard sent to her house and she would be exposed to other humiliations.

At the bottom was a line suggesting that she see Robert J. Carroll, clerk. Carroll is a former Justice of the Peace and makes a specialty of managing collections.

Mrs. Collins did not go to see Carroll. Her son, W. T. Collins of 3519A Greer avenue, called up Moore and accused him of turning his court into a collection agency. No more notices were received. The suit mentioned in the notice was not filed so far as that court was concerned, but suit was brought in Justice Spies' court.

Moore Says Law Permits It.

"They didn't have the nerve to file the suit in Moore's court," said W. T. Collins, "after what I told him over the telephone."

Justice Moore says it is all a mistake about his court being used as a collection agency.

"It's this way," he said. "If the claim is for a smal amount, $10 or so, we try to collect it without piling up costs We send out a notice. If the party comes in and settles that ends it. We turn the money over to the claimant and there is no suit. If the party don't come in and settle, suit is usually filed.

"The procedure is according to statute. I think it is Section 3717, but I am not sure. Anyhow, it is just what justices have always done since there have been any.

"If the claim is collected without suit there is no fee. If there is a suit the fees go to the city. I don't have anything to do with the sending out of the notices. I turn that over to Carroll."

Carroll Says "No Charge."

When Carroll was asked about fees for collections he answered with asperity:

"We can charge fees if we want to. The law gives us the right. It says we can make a contract for a fee or commission of 10 per cent or 50 per cent or anything that we feel like. We don't do it, though.

"Oh, of course, if Fred, the assistant clerk, has to go out and see the people or anything like that and the claimant feels like giving him something for his trouble, why, that's all right. But, we don't make any charge."

Carroll could not tell where the law he alluded to could be found, but he was sure there was such a law.

ENTERED POST-DISPATCH BEAUTY CONTEST, THEN MARRIED A VICOMTE

VICOMTESSE DE VAIENNE.

Nobleman Who Met Bride at Dramatic School Wants Her to Withdraw, but She Leaves Question to the Judges.

Shall a Vicomtesse of France be a competitor in the Post-Dispatch prize beauty contest for the business women of St. Louis?

This question will be decided by the judges in the contest, entries for which close with the end of the present week.

The question has been raised by the discovery that the young woman whose photograph was submitted by admiring friends when she was Miss Blanche De Kressler Allen, a stenographer and law student, is now the Vicomtesse de Vaienne. Her photograph, in the Post-Dispatch window, won great admiration by the dark, captivating beauty it displayed.

The Vicomtesse, who is known to her St. Louis friends as Mrs. Charles E. Bedaux, has offered to withdraw if the judges of the contest feel that her change in station makes it necessary. This point will be decided before the awards are discussed.

Here to Make Fortune.

The Vicomte de Vaienne, who does not commonly use his title in this country, is a clerk in the auditing department of the Mallinckrodt Chemical Co., and says he is in America to remain and make his fortune. How he impetuously wooed and suddenly won the handsome St. Louis young woman, a cousin of Viola Allen, is told by the bride.

"I met Mr. Bedaux last winter at an entertainment where we both were on the program," said Mrs. Bedaux. "I had just recited 'The Society School Girl,' and he a piece in French about Napoleon. We were immediately attracted to one another. I thought him simply grand, and we immediately became friends. During the winter we both attended a school for dramatic expression, where I was studying for the stage.

"We were both members of a week-end party Sunday, Aug. 2 at 'The Cedars,' a resort at Barnhart Mo., on Big River. It was a delightful place, and the romantic surroundings impressed us both.

Questions Reveal Romance.

"'Wouldn't this be a lovely place in which to spend a honeymoon?' said Mr. Bedaux. I assented, for I really thought so. 'Then let us be married right away and come here,' he said.

"We couldn't get married there and then, but we came to St. Louis the next day, and Father Tracy of Visitation Church married us that evening, and we went back to The Cedars for our honeymoon.

"No, indeed, I am not going on the stage; neither is Mr. Bedaux. He is going to become an American millionaire. He is developing a concrete invention of his uncle, and business men tell him it will make an awful lot of money for him. He is awfully clever, and I know he will succeed."

Mrs. Bedaux is 18 years old, and her husband, the Vicomte, is 23. They are living at 519 Whittier street, but will soon have a home of their own on McPherson avenue.

The Vicomte, or Mr. Bedaux, while expressing the belief that his bride would win a prize in any beauty contest she might enter, decided that, in fairness to other contestants, she ought to withdraw. His advise to her to withdraw caused her to make inquiries which revealed her romance.

EVELYN THAW IS BREAKING UNDER GAY LIFE STRAIN

Wife of Imprisoned Millionaire Has Been Sent to Private Sanitarium.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, broken down in health, has been taken to a private sanitarium. She lived until two weeks ago in an apartment house uptown under the name of Mrs. Fitzgerald. It is under that cognomen that she has become a sanitarium patient.

The sanitarium is located in West Sixty-first street and is a favorite resort for women whose nerves have become shattered.

In her recent appearances in public Mrs. Thaw has appeared to be on the verge of a breakdown.

Her nerves are on edge, her face is pinched and shows traces of late hours and a lively life. The fresh beauty that was her strong characteristic is fading.

Told to Give Up Whirlwind Life.

Mrs. Thaw was advised by her physician some time ago, it is said, to give up the whirlwind life which held out such an allurement to her, but she persisted in going the rounds. Last week her condition became such that her doctor ordered her to be taken to the sanitarium. She had left the uptown apartment and was said to be out of town.

As a patient Mrs. Thaw is subjected to much the same sort of exercise as that given guests of William Muldoon's establishment, excepting that there are no cross-country runs on horseback. The diet is carefully regulated and Mrs. Thaw is compelled to go through prescribed muscular exercises that are calculated to restore her strength. All this the young woman cordially dislikes, but has no alternative.

Mrs. Thaw has been cut off from her regular allowance since the institution of her husband's bankruptcy proceedings, and has run short of funds. Her expenses at the sanitarium are being paid by friends who expect to be reimbursed when a settlement of the bankruptcy case of Harry Thaw is made.

She has gone through all the money given her by him since he has been in jail. Her automobile has been sold and she has nowhere to turn except to her indulgent friends for funds.

SPANNAGEL'S BUSY WEEK ENDS WITH A DECREE OF DIVORCE

Former Ball Player Violated Injunction Against Beating Wife and Put Her Out of House.

Mrs. Alpha Spannagel of East St. Louis was granted a divorce from Louis Spannagel in East St. Louis Friday and given permission to resume her maiden name, Alpha Spencer.

Spannagel was formely clerk for the Board of Election Commissioners and several years ago won some prominence as second baseman of the East St. Louis National ball team.

Mrs. Spannagel alleged that her husband beat her, threatened to shoot her and slept with a razor under his pillow.

Mrs. Spannagel testified that her husband drove her out of the rooming house she was conducting last Friday. Saturday she filed a suit for divorce. Monday Spannagel was served with the papers in the case, likewise those of an injunction preventing him from beating her. As soon as the papers in the injunction suit were filed he proceeded to violate it. Tuesday he was arrested for doing so. The injunction proceedings were dropped and he was sued for divorce Friday, ending a strenuous week for Spannagel.

HUNTS HER HUSBAND SO SHE CAN SUE HIM FOR DIVORCE

Wife Refuses to Pay $5 to Fortune Teller, Scorning Spririts' Help.

Mrs. Libbie Doan, 1412 North Ninth street, has refused the offer of a fortune teller to find her missing husband for $5.

"It's not because I haven't that much money," said Mrs. Doan at police headquarters, "but if I invest that amount it will be in partial payment for the costs of a divorce suit. A fortune teller said she could find my husband for $5 and a clairvoyant offered to do the work for $15, but I said nay, nay. If my husband will not support me I will use the money I have to bring suit against him."

Mrs. Doan told the police that her husband, John, disappeared in June, 1904. She wants to know where he is, she told the police.

LOCUST TREE STARTS TO GROW IN CISTERN (IN ALTON)

Suburban Lovers of Nature in Her Playful Moods Notice the Phenomenon.

Cistern diggers on the premises of David Ryan, at Fifth and Alby streets, Alton, have been surprised by the appearance of weeds on the steep interior of the cistern, at places which the sun's rays have reached.

The weeds, the diggers believe, have sprung from seeds buried thirty or forty years ago, when the foundations for a dwelling were laid, the seeds having maintained their vitality.

Besides several sprouts of cockleburn and plantain, a small shoot of a locust tree has appeared.

Knights Arrange for Convention.

DELEGATES HOLD UP ALL BILLS OF PUBLIC MOMENT

Natural Gas, Fair Grounds Purchase and Pure Milk Measures Delayed.

INSTITUTIONS SUFFER

Addition to Asylum Grounds and Hospital Nurses Dormitory Await Action.

With the exception of one bill—that authorizing the President of the Board of Public Improvements to employ a chief engineer for the Free Bridge—all the general legislation in which St. Louis is now interested is delayed in the House of Delegates.

The lack of a quorum in the Council has prevented for two weeks any action on the bridge bill, which passed the House with amendments after being held for a month. Friends of the Free Bridge demand the passage of this bill at once, so that another step toward construction can be taken before winter.

The Council will meet Tuesday. It is promised that the bridge bill will then have a second reading and go to a committee.

Among the important measures on which the House of Delegates has refused to act for two months are the bill granting a franchise for supplying the city with natural gas and the bill for the purchase of the Fair Grounds.

Gas Bill With Brennan.

The Public Improvements Committee, of which W. J. Brennan is chairman, has the gas bill in its keeping. Chairman Brennan has promised that he will request other members of the committee Friday evening to consent to definite action on the bill. He says he is in favor of its passage

The bill authorizing the purchase of the Fair Grounds is in the Ways and Means Committee. That committee is headed by Delegate James T. Brennan. This measure, like the gas bill, has had a public hearing and received the almost unanimous approval of various individuals and organizations, but has never been reported.

The gas bill was opposed only by the Laclede Gas Light Co., which had its attorney prepare a list of questions to be asked of the men asking the franchise.

The Ways and Means Committee has withheld from a vote also three bills authorizing contracts for lighting public streets and buildings, one providing for a nurses' dormitory at the City Hospital, another contemplating the purchase of aditional land for an annex to the Insane Asylum and one appropriating money for a system of medical inspection in public, private and parochial schools.

Paving Record Good.

Besides the natural gas bill, Chairman Brennan's Committee on Public Improvements has prevented the passage of no other vital legislation. The committee's record in reference to the improvement of streets and alleys has been good. More mileage of new streets and alleys can be credited to the present House of Delegates than to any other in the city's history.

Five bills correcting and strengthening present ordinances on the subject of pure milk are in the pigeon hole of James A. Gallagher's Committee on Legislation. They have been there for a month without action of any kind.

Dr. W. B. Wirn, Assistant Health Commissioner, says that a recent decision of the Supreme Court has made these bills absolutely necessary to the successful prosecution of dairymen and retailers who sell impure milk and cream.

A bill authorizing the election of a board of freeholders to revise the charter has slept in Gallagher's committee for several months.

A bill providing for the inspection of electric meters is also in his keeping. This measure is considered weak because it imposes the cost of inspection on the city instead of placing it on the electric company.

At present 71 Council bills are in the House of Delegates. Except for those mentioned most of these are improvement bills and will be passed by the House promptly.

So much work has accumulated in the Council in the last three weeks of its "vacation" that Tuesday's meeting will have to be of several hours' duration.

FOUR DOGS ATTACK WOMAN

Goes to Rescue of Pet and Is Severely Bitten.

Mrs. Clara Gottgetreu was in bed Friday at her home, 1825 Belle street, Alton, suffering from the nervous shock resulting from an attack of four savage dogs, from which she rescued her pet dog, Romeo.

Mrs. Gottgetreu was bitten under the right arm and on the arms and legs before her husband clubbed off the dogs. Her interference saved the pet dog from being killed by the four animals.

WOLF CHEWS UP ABERNATHY, WHO NABS 'EM ALIVE

Roosevelt's Friend Runs School for Mighty Hunters and Gets Bitten.

U. S. MARSHAL WINS

Drags Subdued Beast Out of a Creek and Now It's the Trophy of Victory.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LAWTON, Ok., Aug. 28.—John Abernathy, the United States Marshal who catches them alive, was caught napping by a big gray wolf yesterday and before he succeeded in subduing the animal he was considerably chewed up.

The official report from the hunting camp says: "One finger was badly hurt, while a finger on the right hand was severely lacerated, and his knee also received great injury."

Abernathy is running a training school for wolf catchers not far from Lawton. He has 10 pupils. There isn't a shotgun in the camp, and if the students are progressing as well as Abernathy says they are, by the time the Christmas examinations are held there won't be a wolf in the State.

They turn out early every morning and when school lets out in the evening everybody is expected to have caught a live wolf.

Fights Wolf All Over State.

Just before he was hurt yesterday, Abernathy caught two of 'em. They are described as "sleek, fierce, fighting gray" ones, and they were taken by the school-teacher without much trouble. Then a pupil named Al Jennings caught one, wrapped a wire about its nose and passed it up to teacher, who was on horseback.

The wire shapped. Abernathy and the wolf fought back and forth over the greater part of Oklahoma. Even Abernathy's press agent admits it was a fierce combat.

Five times, according to the official version, the wolf got away from Abernathy, and five times Abernathy recaptured it.

Twice the hunted animal sought refuge in a creek, but Abernathy got his mangled fingers into the wolf's mouth, tore his jaws apart and held him thus until he promised to be good.

"He was acknowledged by all of Abernathy's party as a bad one," concludes the press agent, who was anxious to get all the facts.

Has Inborn Hatred of Wolves.

Nobody in these parts knows just why Abernathy suddenly seems bent on wiping out the wolf population. Heretofore he has contented himself with catching only one or two a day. But now he is rounding them up in droves, stalking them remorselessly day and night. There is no rest for a wolf in Oklahoma now.

He says he's only doing it because it's a part of the curriculum at his institution of learning, but he can't fool his friends in Lawton. They are pretty certain that he's training for the hunting trip to South Africa with President Roosevelt.

They won't find any wolves down there big enough to attract Abernathy, but they are expected to encounter some lions, hippopotami, elephants and the like.

When they get back Roosevelt can make a dollar a word telling how John chased them over hills and across rivers, captured and recaptured them, and finally spanked them into submission.

The wolf Abernathy caught yesterday weighed 125 pounds. Abernathy confessed this to a newspaperman.

WOMEN AND THEIR DOGS THE WHOLE SHOW; MEN CAN ONLY LOOK ON AND APPLAUD

Club Devoted to Higher Education of Fido Plans Exhibition of School Work.

A dog show from which men will be barred, except as spectators, will be given in St. Louis about Oct. 1. All the officials will be women, and not even a dog owned by a man will be on exhibition.

The St. Louis Ladies' Kennel Club, which until Thursday was the St. Louis Ladies' Pet Dog Club, is planning the show. The date will be set definitely within the next few days.

The women met at Delmar Garden Thursday afternoon to change the club name and elect officers. Mrs. H. H. Teschemacher was re-elected president and Mrs. J. B. Able was re-elected treasurer. The new officers are Mrs. M. Frain, first vice-president; Mrs. B. Storts, second vice-president, and Mrs. Victor Diesing, secretary.

The club was organized last February, with the higher education of the dog as the chief purpose. There are 50 members, and all are owners of pedigreed dogs.

The bench show that they will give in the fall is expected to be held under the auspices of the American Kennel Club and will be governed by its rules and regulations, with the exception that all the judges and other officials will be women.

HALF OF CLASS 23 YEARS OLD WEDS THE OTHER

Two Alumni Who Got Their Diplomas Cryptic Number of Years Ago Marry.

ROMANCE IN VACATION

Kentucky Lawyer Hears His Fellow Student Is Single, Courtship Follows.

"Twenty-three" is an expression indicative of trouble and disappointment, but for John E. Kane of Bardwell, Ky., it was bliss and contentment.

Twenty-three years ago he was graduated from Clinton College, Clinton, Ky. Miss Emma Hicks of Kalida, O., was graduated at the same time. There were no other members of the class.

And now the hero and heroine of this commencement of 23 years ago are to be married in St. Louis Friday. They spent the morning obtaining a license and selecting a Presbyterian minister to officiate at the ceremony.

Practices Law in Kentucky.

Mr. Kane is an attorney. Ever since he received his 23-year-old diploma with Miss Hicks, he has been practicing his profession at Bardwell, which is in Carlisle County, not far south of Cairo, Ill.

So closely did he attend to his legal affairs that he lost track of the talented girl who stood upon the commencement platform with him. He thought certainly she had become some lucky man's bride.

Early in 1907 he received an invitation to attend the reunion of the alumni of his college. He accepted. There he learned from an address of Miss A. M. Hicks, former president of the college, that neither of the two graduates of 1885 had ben married.

Then the lonesome lawyer got busy. He interviewed Miss Hicks, the former president, and learned from her that Miss Emma Hicks, her niece, had become a Presbyterian church worker and had charge of mission schools at Huntsville, Tenn.

Love Affair in Vacation.

Kane opened a correspondence which resulted in Miss Hicks spending her vacation at Dawson Springs, Ky., this year. Kane spent his there, too.

The result of this joint vacation was the trip of the entire class of 23 years ago to St. Louis. The class is stopping at the Southern Hotel.

"I enjoyed the outing at Dawson Springs very much," said the bridegroom as he decorated the Southern register Friday. "We renewed our old college friendship there and—added a love affair."

BALL CAMPAIGNER GOT JOKE TELEGRAM AT BRYAN'S HOME; DEMANDS $25,000

"Stay Where You Are," Read Wire Which Was Received While He Was Meeting Kern.

SEDALIA, Mo., Aug. 28.—Just as Dr. J. W. McClure, David A. Ball's Southern Missouri campaign manager, was shaking hands with John W. Kern at W. J. Bryan's home recently, he was handed a telegram. Pausing a moment to look at it, he saw the envelope was addressed: "Dr. J. W. McClure, care William J. Bryan, Lincoln, Neb."

Bryan had just been notified of his nomination, and the surprise had died down. With a side remark to Mr. Kern, Dr. McClure opened the telegram, and this is what he read:

"Stay where you are; you are a bigger thing in Nebraska than you are in Missouri."

It was a warm day at Fairview, but that didn't explain why the doctor's collar wilted as Mr. Kern coughed sympathetically.

Dr. McClure has filed suit against the Western Union for $25,000 for sending the telegram. He has ascertained that Editor G. H. Scrutton of the Democrat-Sentinel sent it as a "joke."

STEAMER SINKS IN TYPHOON AND 51 ARE DROWNED

Only Two Men Survive When the Dunearn Goes to Bottom Off Japan.

TOKIO, Aug. 28.—News of the sinking of the British steamship Dunearn and the loss of all but two of the 53 members of her crew in a typhoon which raged on Aug. 26, of the Port of Goto, on the Island of Kiuhiu, has reached here in a report received from Moji, a town on the same island.

The names of the survivors are given as William P. Pillips, an engineer, and John Landon, a seaman, both of whom were picked up by the Japanese steamer Sakyo Maru.

The Dunearn was bound from Nokolaiesak, Asiatic Russia, to Singapore, and put in at the port of Karatsu for coal. Again putting to sea on Aug. 24, the ship ran into the very center of a typhoon which sent her to the bottom.

The two survivors are prostrated from exposure and hardship and a subscription has been taken up for them among the crew of the Sakyo Maru.

CHILDREN OF RICH AND POOR VIE AT ATHLETIC FETE

Inter-Playground Picnic Brings Together 3000 of All Classes.

MAYOR PINS BADGES

Gamble Park and Second Street Tie for First Honors With 18 Points Each.

The democracy of childhood was indorsed by Mayor Wells Thursday afternoon when he pinned red, white and blue ribbons on the winners of the athletic events at the big interplaygrounds picnic at Forest Park.

Children were there from all sections of St. Louis. Rich children and poor children rubbed elbows or competed with each other in foot races, ball games and tugs of war.

One thing all of the children had in common. They had passed their summer vacation days on the municipal playgrounds—some in the crowded tenement districts and others in the better residence districts.

The outing was under the direction of Miss Charlotte Rumbold, E. S. Wilson and O. H. Boettger. More than 3000 children were at the picnic and 200 competed in the athletic events.

First Honors a Tie.

Gamble Park and Second Street Playgrounds were tied for first honors with 18 points each.

Despite its name, Gamble Park lost in the drawing of straws and the prize went to Second Street.

Carr Street was third with 13 points and Yeatman fourth with 11. Lyon scored 5, Mullanphy 4 and Carnegie 3.

But Gamble Park evened up in the ball game, which it won from the Mullanphys by a score of 17 to 1.

McCutcheon of Gamble and Dagman of Second Street carried off the individual honors, Dagman winning two firsts and a second and McCutcheon two firsts.

In Mayor Wells' party were H. A. Forman, J. C. Travilla, Charles W. Bates, Harry R. Fardwell, John P. Boyce, Ben F. Adkins, Phil C. Scanlan, E. J. Russell, E. S. Wilson, Dexter Tiffany and John F. Lee.

MAYOR WELLS PINNING BADGE OF VICTORY ON GIRL AT PLAYGROUND

WINNER OF BEAN BAG.

CONTRACT IS LET FOR LIBRARY; TO COST $1,372,267

Building Will Be Constructed of Granite by John Pierce Company of New York.

John F. Lee, chairman of the Building Committee of the Public Library Board, announced Friday that the contract for the erection of the new Central Library had been awarded to the John Pierce Company of New York.

The bid of the John Pierce Company provides for the building to be constructed of Mount Waldo granite, produced by the quarries of that company, at the contract price of $1,372,267. The cost of book cases and the interior furnishings probably will bring the total cost to $1,600,000 or $1,650,000, according to Chairman Lee.

The decision of the Board in awarding the contract was practically unanimous. Certain members of the Board originally preferred Bedford Limestone, at the contract price of $1,172,167, bid also by the Pierce Company, because of the difference in price.

Chairman Lee stated that the awarding of the contract for book stacks, the cost of which probably will range from $80,000 to $130,000, will be delayed for a month until all the members of the board are in the city. At that time Architect Cass Gilbert will return from New York, and the final contracts for the erection of the building will be let. At that time a clerk of the works, who will have active supervision of the building, will be chosen.

SISTER SEEKS LOUIS STETINA

Louis Stetina, 32 years old, left his home at 1004 Geyer avenue at 3 p. m. a week ago Thursday with $100 in his pocket. He never returned and his relatives fear he was murdered.

His sister, Mrs. Josephine Batek of 1323 Russell avenue, has asked the police to find him. She says he is about 5 feet 8 inches in height, has light hair, blue eyes and weighs 120 pounds. She was unable to describe his clothing. He was unmarried and lived at the Geyer avenue address with his brother.

Knives Found in Prisoner's Pocket.

Three knives, found in possession of John Downey, a negro, after he had spent two days in Central District holdover, are likely to cause trouble for the policeman who searched Downey before assigning him to a cell. Capt. Young is investigating and charges of neglect may result.

WIRELESS AIDS IN FORECAST OF OCEAN WEATHER

German Expert Gets Reports From Steamer and Compiles Maps.

If the Post-Dispatch Weather Bird gets a vacation and takes a trip to Europe, he will feel at home while going over.

Wireless telegraph reports are being used to make weather maps for the ocean, the same as they are made for points on land, according to advices which have been received by Acting Forecaster Burroughs of the St. Louis Weather Bureau.

"I have read with great interest the accounts of the experiments made by Dr. P. J. H. Polls of the Aix-la-Chapelle observatory," said Mr. Burroughs to a Post-Dispatch reporter.

"By means of wireless messages from the steamship Auguste Victoria on her last trip over, he has made correct weather maps for a distance of 1200 miles from the European and 800 miles from the American coast.

"The United States Government is working along the same lines. It is now possible for our bureau at Washington to make weather forecasts as far away as the Great Banks, which are about 1500 miles from our coast.

"In gathering the information, the Government does not use the wireless telegraph, but bases its forecasts on reports received by cable from the west coast of Europe, the Azores, the Atlantic Coast and Newfoundland.

"All large vessels are now equipped with weather instruments and the Government encourages accurate observations. Dr. Polls' experiments show that the use of wireless in supplementing the present excellent service is entirely feasible."

WHOLE JAPANESE NAVY WILL ESCORT AMERICAN WAR FLEET

Tokio Government Plans Special Maneuvers to Show What Their Sailors Can Do.

TOKIO, Aug. 28.—Determined to outdo every other country in its welcome to the American fleet when it steams into the harbor Oct. 17, the Government has decided to send the entire Japanese navy, in battle array, to act as an escort for the 16 American ships.

Unable at first to agree on how many ships to send in the welcoming escort, the Government finally solved the question today by deciding that every available battleship, cruiser and auxiliary vessel should take part in the spectacle, intended to be the most imposing ever seen in the Orient.

Japan will utilize the occasion by a series of naval maneuvers before the arrival of Uncle Sam's fleet. The first reserve squadron has been commissioned to entertain the visiting fleet during a secondary series of maneuvers.

WALKED INTO LAKE BECAUSE ILLNESS PREVENTED MARRIAGE

Chicago Girl, Broken Down From Overstudy, Became Despondent After Wedding Called Off.

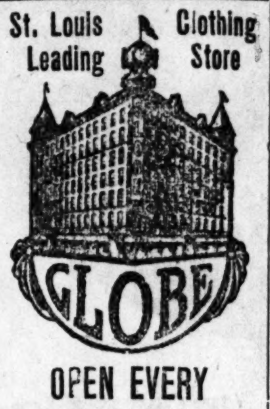

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—It became known today that Miss May Field Werne, 21 years old, who committed suicide by walking into Lake Michigan yesterday, was despondent because of an illness that was largely imaginary, prevented her marrying a devoted sweetheart. She wore a pair of shoes from the Swope Shoe Co. of St. Louis.

She left farewell messages to her father and the man she had hoped to marry—George Mansfield, a traveling salesman of El Paso, Tex. The girl was graduated from a private seminary in El Paso and broke down from overstudy several months ago. It was there that she first met and fell in love with Mansfield. Her relatives approved of the match, but prevented a wedding ceremony from taking place last spring because of her mental condition. This, it is said, aggravated her ailment.

TAFT FUND SAID TO HAVE $50,000 FROM HARRIMAN

William Nelson Cromwell, Railroad Man's Attorney, Is Contributor to Campaign.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Victor F. Lawson's Daily News asserts upon "a reliable report from New York" that William Nelson Cromwell, representing E. H. Harriman, has made a big contribution to the Taft campaign fund. The sum was the first made to Treasurer Sheldon and is said to be $50,000. It is further declared that there is trouble in Republican ranks over the donation.

Mr. Cromwell was recently appointed a member of the Eastern Campaign Committee of the Republican party by National Chairman Frank H. Hitchcock.

Upham Has Heard of It.

When asked today whether he knew that Mr. Cromwell had made a contribution to the Republican fund, Assistant Treasurer Fred W. Upham said:

"I do not know it of my own knowledge, but I have been told that he has."

"Was the amount $50,000?"

"I do not know what the amount was," said Upham.

Republican leaders surmise Cromwell may have made the contribution on behalf of Harriman, though he is well able to do it personally. He is understood to have made more than $1,000,000 in fees out of the sale of the Panama Canal by the French company to the United States.

Secretary of War Taft was one of the men with whom he negotiated on behalf of the Government, and upon the assumption by the United States of authority on the isthmus Mr. Cromwell was for a long time his right-hand man.

SISTERS ARE PASTORS' BRIDES

BAY CITY, Mich., Aug. 28.—A double wedding in which the bridegrooms were ministers and the two brides were sisters and daughters of the officiating clergyman, took place last night at the home of the Rev. William W. Hoyt, father of the brides.

The bridegrooms were the Rev. Albert Potbury of Bay City and the Rev. Arthur D. Warren of Perry Locke, Mich.

TRAMP BEATS, KICKS AND ROBS WOMAN IN HOME

Thief Knocks Housewife Unconscious and Takes $12 From Her Stocking.

A tramp to whom Mrs. Sylvina Miller of 4442 Chouteau avenue refused to give money for a night's lodging knocked her down, beat and kicked her and took $12 from her stocking. She lay unconscious on her kitchen floor for 20 minutes.

Mrs. Miller was cooking supper Thursday night when the man appeared at the door.

"I want money to get a place to sleep," he said gruffly.

"I can't give it to you," said Mrs. Miller.

"O, you haven't got it, I guess," he sneered. "Well, I'll see."

He pushed Mrs. Miller aside and stepped into the kitchen.

Mrs. Miller's husband was not at home, but, thinking to scare away the tramp, she called "George."

"You can't bluff me. There's nobody here," said the tramp, striking Mrs. Miller in the face and knocking her down. When she tried to rise he struck her again and kicked her in the side. She fainted.

When she regained consciousness she found that the money had been taken from her stocking. She notified the police, but they have found no trace of the tramp.

Mrs. Miller says that he was of medium height and stout and wore a black and white check shirt and a dark suit. His eyes were blue and his hair was light.

SUICIDE ATTEMPT NO. 7 FAILS

Woman Is Thwarted as She Ties Nightgown to Gas Jet.

Mary Apple had tied one twisted end of a nightgown about her neck and was tying the sleeves to a gas jet, when her mother, Mrs. Boga Kett, entered the sitting room of their home at 708 Ann avenue.

Mrs. Kett stopped the proceedings in time to save the gas fixtures from being pulled down, then sent the young woman to the City Hospital. She has been there six times before in the last six months, each time as the result of an attempt or a threat to commit suicide. Separation from her husband is the cause of her recurring desire to die.

LEWIS TO FIGHT HEREAFTER FOR MERE PASTIME

New Owner of the Star Invites Public to Help Him Run His Newspaper.

WANTS MANY PARTNERS

Referendum Vote to Be Taken Yearly to Decide Who Will Be Editor.

Edward G. Lewis, purchaser of the Star and Chronicle, has sent broadcast to men and women letters and copies of the editorial announcement which he will publish in the newspaper when he takes possession Monday, outlining his plan to place the control of the newspaper in the hands of its subscribers through a "trust agreement" and an "election by referendum vote."

In the letter he says in emphatic black type: "I propose through a trust agreement that its editorial management shall be subject to election by referendum vote each year of its recorded subscribers."

In further explanation, Mr. Lewis says in the editorial announcement: "We propose to give you in this newspaper a fearless, clean, honest journal, and it is my purpose that as soon as it can be accomplished, a trust agreement shall be drawn, through which its subscribers of record the first of each year will by referendum vote, elect a trustee as chief of its editorial staff, in whose hands for the ensuing year entire control of its editorial and news policy shall be vested and who shall appoint its editorial staff."

Will Fight as Pastime.

The editorial announcement, which is signed by Mr. Lewis, opens with a brief review of the development of his publishing business in University City, and declares:

"We have found, however, that independent enterprise must be able to protect itself somewhat as in the days of feudal warfare; and now that our enterprises have established their right to live and their ability to hold their own through force of arms, we rather enjoy the warfare and have concluded to keep up as a pastime the fight for fairness, justice, the same laws for all alike and the right of all independent enterprise to live in this city."

Comparing the United States and the Roman Republic, Mr. Lewis argues that the public press is the one paramount element which Rome did not have.

He declares that those who control the press, control the nation and pleads for a "clear field, an open fight and a square deal."

Will Boost the Booster.

"We shall boost the booster, help to silence the knocker, he continues, "and try to give the young man a chance. We recognize the debt of gratitude to the older generation, whose industry, daring and ability has made the city; but see no reason why the younger should be kept in knee breeches and a leading string although grown to manhood, because their fathers are still on the job.

"There is a place for hogs, one for dogs-in-the-manger, one for blackmailers and the proper place for dead ones is not on the chest of those who desire to live and let live, but in the graveyard."

His letter concludes by expressing thanks to "the people and particularly the women of St. Louis, in that public sentiment was alone strong enough to prevent our annihilation in the past for having dared to exercise our supposed privileges of independent enterprise and industry."

Asks $1 for Ten Weeks.

The letter solicits subscriptions to the Star and Chronicle, offering to send the other Lewis publications along with the newspaper. It advises the reader to subscribe "If you feel like engaging a season seat for the exhibition of an ordinary citizen committing lese majeste against the powers that be.

"It is going to be a right interesting exhibition," says Mr. Lewis in conclusion, "one of the kind that is getting painfully scarce, and I ask your cooperation to the extent of a 10 weeks' try-out at $1 at least, against which I am staking half a million."

800 BARRELS OF BEER EMPTIED

Oklahomans on Hand With Buckets Disappointed in Hope of Salvage.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Aug. 28.—Eight hundred barrels of beer, valued at $8000, belonging to a local brewing company, were emptied into a sewer yesterday in the presence of the State Dispensary Agent and the Internal Revenue Collector.

Two thousand people attended the emptying, some with buckets and pitchers, hoping for a chance of salvage, which hope was disappointed. The beer was on hand when the State law took effect.

MARMALADE IS SAVED, BUT FIREMEN MAKE A HARD RUN

Three Engine Companies Backed Up by Salvage Corps Rescue Eight Jars of It.

Three engine companies and a salvage corps saved eight jars of boarding house marmalade and preserves after a hard run Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. C. R. Hutchings, 1536 Mississippi avenue, left the preserves on the kitchen stove to cook while she went downtown shopping. A small boy passed the house just after she left and saw smoke coming from the kitchen window. He turned in an alarm.

The firemen mussed up the house by running hose through the various doors and windows, but they saved the preserves.

KERMIT HERO OF RUNAWAY

President's Son Stops Fleeing Horses, Saving Three Lives.

OYSTER BAY, Aug. 28.—Kermit Roosevelt displayed his courage and his skill as a horseman yesterday when, on horseback, he pursued for more than a mile a pair of runaway horses dragging a carriage in which were Mrs. Frank Hilton of New York and her two little sons, and by stopping the runaways at the risk of injury to himself, undoubtedly saved three lives. They had reached the bridge over Bayville Creek, where the road is narrow, when the horses became frightened and ran.

Kermit, out for a ride, galloped to the rescue. He reached out to seize the reins, but the animals swerved and dashed on with redoubled speed. Half a mile further on the runaways began to tire. Kermit ranged up alongside and, leaning far to one side, caught the reins, tugging with might and main until his efforts finally told.

CARDINALS ARE MOVING UP IN HIT FIGURES

No McCloskeyite Has Reached .300 However—Cobb and Wagner the Leaders.

Although Ty Cobb, the Detroit slugger, slumped a bit during the past week in his hitting, he is still in the lead of all other American League batters, with the exception of Dode Criss, the Brown's pinch hitter. Cobb stands alone, with a mark of .341, only six points below his average of last week, and to all appearance, there is no one in the League who has a chance to catch him this year.

Al Schweitzer, though hardly a regular, is still in second place, with .323, while Rossman of Detroit is close upon him with .316. George Stone of the Browns, whom many fans expected would beat out Cobb this year, is far down, being eighteenth in the list, with a mark of .283. However, during the past week, he has shown a little improvement and is batting like himself again.

Hobe Ferris and Bobby Wallace have both climbed up a bit. Emmett Heidrick is not yet figured in the averages, because he hasn't played in 15 games.

In the National League, Hans Wagner's pre-eminence is almost as marked as is Cobb's in the American. Hans sticks at the top easily with an average of .335, a few points better than that of a week ago. Zimmerman, the Cubs' substitute, raised himself a bit higher during the past week, and is second, with .327. Mike Donlin is the legitimate second man, however, the New York captain holding on with an average of .319. Johnny Evers of the Cubs is next, with .312, having advanced 15 points during the last week.

The Cardinals' hitters have pulled up wonderfully in a week's time. Murray is now tenth in the League, with a mark of .281, having come up 9 points. Al Shaw has done marvelously well, being fifteenth in the list now, with .271, pulling himself up 19 points in a week. Koney also climber up to .257, an advance of 8 points.

OVER-EAGERNESS BEATS CARDINALS

Bad Base Running in Ninth Costs Chance to Tie Score With Brooklyn.

By JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

Too much eagerness cost the Cardinals a victory over the Brooklyn club yesterday afternoon in the first of a series of three battles to be held here. Action in a club is admirable, but it must be backed by judgment. After a delay of eight innings, the Cardinals began a lively rally in the ninth that threatened to destroy the Eastern tail-end team, but in the hurry to complete the job a mistake was made that cut off the chance and the Brooklyn men pulled out with a close victory by a count of 2 to 1.

The Easterners had scraped in two runs during the contest, while the Cardinals had been blanked with regularity up to the ninth inning. Then Ludwig opened with a single and Hostetter, batting for Beebe, punched out another. Shaw then beat out a nasty bounder and the bases were full with no one out. Moran, the new catcher, ran for Ludwig and Lush took Hostetter's place on the bags.

Then came Charles and he bounced a single over the pitcher's head to center field, scoring Moran. Lush became overexcited in his eagerness to tie up the score and was about to attempt a daring run for the plate, which, of course, would not have been good baseball when no one was out, and by stopping at third he would still leave the bases packed.

Billy Gilbert was coaching at third and grabbed Johnny in his mad rush for home, whirling him back toward third base. But in the mixup Johnny was thrown to the ground and before he could scramble back to third base Maloney had shot the ball there and he was tagged out.

That one play surely killed the chances for the Cardinals to score. Had Lush been allowed to tear home he had about even chances to score, but at the same time it was a chance he should never have attempted as long as no one was out.

With one out and a man on first and one on second, things looked much different than had the bases been full with no one out. Murray followed with a roller to the second baseman and was tossed out. Koney was purposely passed and Delehanty's grounder to the second baseman ended the game without the other run necessary to tie the score.

Brooklyn, with Wilhelm doing the pitching, is a tough club for anyone to beat. But Brooklyn played a strong defensive game, too, yesterday and the Cardinals had no chance to count until that ninth inning, and then the rally caused them to get flighty.

Fred Beebe did the hurling for the Cardinals and was splendid and should have won his game with any kind of batting behind him. Brooklyn was, indeed, fortunate to score on him and but for some sad mistakes on the part of the home team, they would never have counted.

Brooklyn is the same tired-appearing club it was two or three years ago when it was a hopeless trailer. Last season it braced up and gave promise of doing great things this year. But even with such sluggers as Lumley and Jordan and a string of good pitchers, the boys from the Gotham suburb seem lifeless and only took a brace yesterday because of the chance to pull themselves out of last place by a clean sweep of the St. Louis series.

The Cardinals should not lose another game to this bunch. Two games are still to be played, one being tomorrow and the other Sunday. Today is an open date.

CARDINALS WILL GIVE NEW MEN A WORKOUT TODAY

Captain Billy Gilbert of the Cardinals is leading his boys across the Mississippi this afternoon for an exhibition game at the mining colony of Mount Olive. The purpose is to try out some of the youngsters secured lately from the minor leagues.

Gilbert will conduct the excursion and will take all of the new men and enough of the old players to make up a complete team. Moran will catch and Murdock and Hoblitzel will be worked on the infield.

The boys will return in the evening.

Giants' Success Due to Dropping Sacrifice Hits

McGraw Takes No Chances of Batters Hitting Into Double Play—New York Rests Today at Chicago.

BY BOZEMAN BULGER.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.

NOT a Giant stirred out of his couch before 9 o'clock this morning. They have a rest of 24 hours before them and McGraw told them last night to take a good rest. This afternoon they will have ample time to think things over. While the defeat at the hands of Chicago, 5 to 1, was somewhat of a surprise, it carried with it no sting and everybody treats it lightly.

"After winning eight straight games and undergoing an awful strain, we had something coming to us," explained McGraw, "and I am glad that we have got it out of our systems."

The Giants played as bad a game of baseball as was ever run off under the leadership of McGraw, and Chicago played little better. It was one of the ragged affairs where the spectator was uncertain whether the next play would be a long hit or an inexcusable error.

New York had 10 men left on bases. Not an inning passed by that they did not get a hit. At one time Seymour had a chance with the bases full and none out, but the best he could do was a weak pop-up to the infield. Before that Tenney was up with runners on second and third and none out and he ignominiously struck out. Donlin could not get a gauge on the ball and though he peeled off several long fouls that missed the line by inches he could not slam out a fair one. Once he beat out a slow hit to Steinfeldt, but that was the sum total of his hitting.

The two southpaws, Pfeister and Wiltse, met and their meeting was like that of two irate washerwomen quarreling over the fence. Their work was ragged. Neither appeared to be the great pitcher that he is. It is a pretty safe bet, however, that any team which makes 10 clean hits off Wiltse will win. New York also made 10, but their's were accessories after the fact, while Chicago bingles arose in the beginning of the various melodramatic chapters called innings.

Pittsburg Strain Tells.

The downfall of the Giants was simply a result of relaxation after the bitter fight at Pittsburg. Having had a chance to ease up they will take a well-deserved rest today.

McGraw's success toward the latter part of this season has been due to an innovation in baseball which sprung from the fertile brain of this same manager of the Giants. McGraw has practically abolished the idea of sacrificing a runner to second when nobody is out. During the eight straight games that the Giants won, including the four at Pittsburg, there were not more than three sacrifice hits.

Results show that his reasoning is correct. He figures it this way: Tenney, the first batter, is a good waiter and also a good hitter. He usually gets on base about half the time. Larry Doyle, the next man up, is a .300 hitter. He usually hits the ball hard, whether it falls safely. He is not an extra good bunter.

Double Plays Unlikely.

Now, McGraw figures that it is almost impossible to make Larry hit into a double play. The chances are that he will hit safe one time out of three. If he does, he drives the runner to third, and if that happens to be a double or triple he will score.

With Bresnahan and Donlin and Seymour to follow they are likely to break up the game right at the start by thus pounding the ball. McGraw orders all five of these men to smash the ball. "Cut out the bunt," is the way he expresses it, "and run the other club off its feet by clouting the ball."

"You can say for me," said McGraw last night, "that the present position of the Giants in the pennant race is due more to Larry Doyle and Mike Donlin than any other cause. If we win the pennant and you want to pick out the stars who had the biggest hand in the pie, you can select Doyle and Donlin and feel perfectly safe. Of course the other men, like Bresnahan, Tenney, Devlin and Bridewell, are the big stars in defensive work and they have done some wonderful playing, but I am talking about hitting now."

Team Still Happy.

Realizing that they are playing on velvet the entire team is in the best of humor today and they feel confident of being able to take the next two from the former champions. If Chicago plays like it did yesterday it ought to be easy.

Catcher Wilson, a recruit from Springfield, Ill., joined the New York club last night and will make the rest of the circuit with them. It is unlikely, though, that he will have a chance before the club returns to New York unless Bresnahan is injured.

ST. LOUIS U. ELEVEN WILL TRAIN AT LAKE BEULAH, WIS.

Cochems and His Boys Will Begin Their Work Next Week.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 28.—According to E. B. Cochems, athletic director of St. Louis University, the St. Louis U. football squad will start preliminary training for the football season at Lake Beulah, Wis., next week. The squad trained at Lake Beulah last year. The Marquette University squad will train only a short distance away from the St. Louis U. men, and both varsity teams are expected to clash in a regular game in Milwaukee before Cochems birngs his squad to St. Louis.

BREWSTER DEFEATS JONES ON THE KANSAS CITY COURT

St. Joseph Man Gets Two Out of Three Games With St. Louisan.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 28.—H. H. Brewster of St. Joseph, Mo., defeated Drummond Jones of St. Louis, captain and champion of the Yale tennis team, in the third round of the singles of the Missouri Valley tournament at the Kansas City A. C. yesterday. Brewster won the first and third sets. The scores were 6-1, 3-6, 6-2.

It was the third meeting between the men this year. Brewster defeated Jones at St. Louis, but Jones won from Brewster at St. Joseph. Yesterday both men played a careful game, depending on placing to win points. Jones did not put up his usual game.

KETCHEL IS 2 TO 1 OVER PAPKE NOW

Gans and Nelson Even in Betting and Attell 10 to 9 Over Moran on Coast.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.—San Francisco fans have already begun to bet on the three big fights slated for early September.

Thus far there is more betting on the Ketchel-Papke fight at Los Angeles on Labor day than any other. Odds of 2 to 1 are being offered on Ketchel with few takers and the favorite gamble will be even money that Stanley knocks out the Kewanee man in 15 minutes.

Ketchel has the call on the local fans, and they will bet their last dollar on his success.

Attel is a favorite at 10 to 9 over Moran, although the little Englishman's strong showing in training has made a deep impression. Attell is hurt by the fact that he is already under weight, which does not look good for his staying powers.

For the Gans-Nelson fight even money is offered, as Gans has shown up strong and quick in training and is sparring as he used to do several years ago.

MORAN PUTS OUT THREE OF HIS SPARRING PARTNERS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.—Owen Moran is following the pace set by Stanley Ketchel in the mauling of sparring partners and probably will soon experience the same difficulty as Stanley in finding human punching bags. He gave three all that they wanted and a little more at Shannon's villa yesterday.

The English champion now tips the beam at 126 pounds, but he has not yet begun to do any hard work. Neither he nor his trainer believe he will have any difficulty in making the weight. From his system of training it would seem Moran is preparing to make a quick, rough fight.

Trainer Tim Krelling has introduced a novelty into the Moran training camp in the shape of an electric battery. He gives Moran treatment every day, which may account for the Englishman's ginger.

BROWNS HAVE NEW LIFE IN THE RACE NOW

Tom Jones the Hero of McAleer Band's Double Victory Over Boston.

BY JOHN E. WRAY.
Sporting Editor Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Aug. 28.

THE ice is broken. The hoodoo is chased. For the whole season that Red Sox team, the pride of the Hub, has humbled the Browns and the record of games between the two teams has been a smirch on the diamond escutcheon of the gallant band led by Jimmy McAleer. It all come about by the Browns smashing the combination in that double-header by the scores of 3—1, 3—1.

McAleer, though the happiest man east of the Mississippi, is not bubbling over with optimi. of the kind which is likely to hurt the future progress of his team. His broad smile speaks plainly his satisfaction at the turn of the tide and it has given him greater hopes than ever for the pennant when the time comes for settling that important question with the Tigers.

"If we can take three out of four games here, or possibly make a clean sweep, it will mean a lot for us when we return to the home grounds to take on our rivals," said McAleer. "Winning a double-header from a team which has harrassed us all the year and has been the cause of holding us back in the race shows conclusively that we have broken the backbone of the hardest proposition we have been up against, and the boys all feel that from now on their climb will be steadily upward."

Team in Fine Spirits.

The spirits of every member of the team have already begun to soar, which is not surprising, as they considered the Red Sox their biggest stumbling block in the East.

Nothing on the trip has put such courage into the Browns as the successful termination of that brace of games.

Drawing one full game nearer the Tigers is another incentive to make the Browns go the limit. They realize that every notch nearer the top means lessening the fight for them when the final test comes with Jennings' crew, and the chief point of interest in their eyes now is the coming duel with the champions.

It was not the easiest conquest in the world to wrest two victories in one day from the star club of the second division, as the Red Sox fought the issue out in each contest to the bitter end, but they were overwhelmed by the determination of the Browns.

Bailey and Dinneen Good.

Upon the shoulders of the boxmen fell the heavy work and Bailey and Dinneen proved equal to the burden, while their men rallied to their support in a befitting manner. But when picking out the chief offenders against the Red Sox the destruction wrought by Tom Jones must not be overlooked. He is a diamond hero today if there ever was one. Almost last at the foot of the Browns' batting list, he came to life when the opportunity presented itself, and by his timely action figured in the main part of the victory.

In the first game Jones got into the fray when the Browns started the stampede which meant the undoing of the Red Sox. The one run the home team had managed to scrape up looked as big as a mountain til' the last ditch was in sight. Then Heidrick beat out a slow hit, was sacrificed to second by Ferris and when Wallace's hit put him over the plate the score was tied up and Bobby was hanging to the third corner through the kindness of Thoney, who let his hit go through him.

Williams drew a base and Schweitzer went to bat for Smith, but his effort was unavailing, as he went out on strikes, but Criger's muff gave Williams a chance to trot down to second.

Then the Vital Moment.

Then came the vital moment. With two down Jones stepped to the plate. Cy Young never put more steam on the ball or strived with greater energy to frustrate a batter, but it was not his day. Jones measured every ball the giant pitched. Jones picked out a good one and slammed it to right with all the power of his husky arms. Wallace and Williams started with the crack of the bat and were safely over the plate.

Jones got into the limelight again in the second clash when called upon to put the run over and everything depended on his efforts, but he did not flinch and was counted the most destructive individual of the Browns by the local talent.

S.S.S. MAKES A LASTING CURE

There are certain mineral medicines which will remove the external symptoms of Contagious Blood Poison, and shut the disease up in the system for awhile, but when the treatment is left off the disease will surely return. Then the loathsome symptoms of ulcerated mouth and throat, copper-colored spots, falling hair, sores and ulcers, etc., are usually worse because the disease has made rapid progress on the internal members, and weakened the constitution and general health of the sufferer. S. S. S. is the only remedy that can be used with perfect safety in the treatment of Contagious Blood Poison, and with the assurance that a lasting cure will result. This medicine, made entirely of roots and herbs of recognized curative and tonic value, antidotes and destroys the powerful virus of the disease, and by purifying the blood of every particle of the poison and enriching and strengthening the circulation, removes every sypmptom of the trouble. S. S. S. does not hide or cover up the disease in any way, but drives it entirely out from the blood, leaving not the slightest trace for future outbreaks. Home treatment book with valuable information and any medical advice desired sent free to all who write.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—The price of admission to the Sheepshead Bay track during the meeting which begins tomorrow will be $2. There will be no field inclosure for the racegoers, and all patrons will have the privileges of the grandstand.

Schuyler L. Parsons, presiding steward of the Coney Island Jockey Club, told a correspondent of the Post-Dispatch that a big steel gate had been placed at the entrance to the field stand. "We have cut out the field stand for this meeting at least," he said, "and have reduced the price of admission to $2. The other racing associations will probably make a similar move.

OWNER OF THE DOVES CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARY

Back in the early '80s George and his brother, Will, were two of the best-known amateur ballplayers. Charley Comiskey signed Will in 1886 for the St. Louis Browns.

Chris Von der Ahe laid his lines to get George, but failed. George never became a professional and never got a cent out of the game until he purchased the Boston club two years ago.

Concerning Fall Hats

WE DESIRE IT KNOWN THAT OUR HATTERY IS NOT A MERE ANNEX OR ADDENDUM TO OUR ESTABLISHMENT intended merely as a convenience for those who might incidentally wish hats, but it is a complete hattery in every sense of the term, created to answer the demand for exclusive headwear and operated by specialists who know no other line of trade.

THE WERNER & WERNER HAT STORE IS COSMOPOLITAN to the extent that it supplies hats for men in all walks of life and at various prices, yet it never departs from the rule of quality no matter what the prices happen to be. It carries no "cheap" hats at all, yet it has lines which sell at popular prices. These embrace the very best materials and workmanship it is possible to produce at $2.00 and $3.50.

THE DE LUXE HAT AT $6 IS THE EMBODIMENT OF artistic modeling for gentlemen, representing the collaboration of master hat designers and the symbol of culture, taste and refinement. Only the very finest selected Argentine fur is used, and it may interest you to know that the same thought and care which the sculptor gives to his creations enter into the modeling of this faultless headwear.

THUS IT IS THAT THE BEST AND MOST TASTEFUL hat work in the world is to be seen in our hattery. The fact that the fall models are ready may further stimulate your interest.

Easy to Button—They don't tear out.

The Gordon is an exceptionally good Collar. Its style is becoming, it is correct in highth and it fits so snug and easy that you actually forget it's around the neck.

15¢ each Silver BRAND Collars 2 for 25

'Tis a fact that collar wearers everywhere recognize that the "LINOCORD" eyelet button-holes worked only into Silver Brand Collars are the easiest to button and unbutton and that—they don't tear out.

If you were a student of comfort to the extent of securing it for yourself in its largest degree, your Collars would certainly receive greater consideration.

Most Collars are disagreeably annoying because of quickly frayed edges and torn buttonholes. Not so with SILVER BRAND COLLARS however, they are made to wear with comfort and, having special folds that do not crack so quickly and "LINOCORD" buttonholes that don't tear out, they insure better fit and longer wear. That's why particular dressers accept them as the best 2 for 25c Collars made.

What Your Liver Weighs

Is nothing compared to what it feels like it weighs when it's out of order, run down and sluggish. Your liver may weigh a pound and a half, but you don't care about that when you are suffering from a violent sick headache, an attack of indigestion, a case of biliousness, a spell of jaundice, stomach and bowel trouble, coated tongue, pain in the side, constipation and kindred trouble. What you want is relief from the suffering. These things all come from the failure of the liver to do its work right, and that is the organ you want to get after. Get it going, the trouble will soon disappear and you will get relief.

Lane's Pills will always make the liver move—they help the liver do its work. They are compounded for that purpose. They are a specific for all liver ills. They are best for the liver. They are safe—even for delicate women and children—and one is a dose. They are sold by druggists at 25 cents a bottle, twenty-five in a bottle. They are made by Chas. E. Lane & Co., Chemists, St. Louis, Mo., who spent years perfecting them, and who will send you a generous sample free, if your druggist hasn't got them. Sold in St. Louis by Johnson Bros., Broadway and Franklin; Wolff-Wilson, Sixth and Washington; Rabeteau & Co., Broadway and Lucas; Enderle Drug Co., (3 stores), Sixth and Chestnut sts., Eighth and Pine sts., Broadway and Market st.

IS THE ERA OF CONSCIENCE ENDED?

The quickening of public conscience in Missouri had realities in it which made it worth while for Indiana to invite the Governor of Missouri to tell its meaning.

As he dealt with facts before his Chautauqua audience at Sullivan, Ind., the facts are historical. No facts in Missouri history are more important. They belong now also to the history of the entire United States. They are represented in work already done to improve the whole country. It is history that this was done on Missouri's initiative. Missouri led the way. It had no sooner shown its earnestness and the invariable results of earnest determination to improve the worst conditions than the example it set was imitated in other states, until marked improvement followed, with opportunities for further improvement, generally recognized as still more marked.

This is history. But it is now only a matter of history? Are we to discuss an "era of conscience" as if it were over? Was it a mere spasm of virtue?

Some think so already. Some hope so in Missouri politics this year. Their survival in politics depends on conceding that political virtue is pardonable when it has come in a spasm, with the spasm over, and nothing left of it but history.

Against this hope we have the "Shall the people rule?" proposed as the "overshadowing question" of the year. The answer the Missouri conscience has already recorded is that they shall. The "era of public conscience" was the beginning of the process of driving out of places of public trust those who trade in public trust for private profit. It is not over. It is only beginning.

Bryan has met both Ball and Cowherd, but the real situation will not be disclosed until Ball and Cowherd meet.

THE ARTISTIC TEMPERAMENT.

Mr. Ferdinand Pinney Earle is discouraged by confinement in jail, but he has not yet learned his lesson.

"I may have been thoughtless at times," he says, "perhaps rough with her, but a man of the artistic temperament does not plod through life with the same phlegmatic mind as folks that have nothing to do with the arts."

This humbug about artistic temperament is a convenient excuse for people who like to indulge their appetite for lawless nonsense, vice and even crime. It is possible that some of them really believe it, and take it as a hardship when they are brought to book for their temperamental doings.

People who flutter about the fringe of the art life thinking and saying in a whining tone that they could do great work if a tasteless and commonplace world would only appreciate it, but never making a robust self-sacrifice to prove their worth, are especially fond of this plea of temperament. Real artists are seldom aware that they have the artistic temperament. They are too busy.

Whenever a man puts in this silly plea to escape the censure of the sensible for his offensive oddities, his vices and his failures, his friends will prove their friendship by giving him a swift kick. Had this man Earle received such benevolent treatment when he first became aware of his artistic temperament, two women would have been saved from misery and he might have made a real man of himself.

The Dutch Government is slow about punishing Castro. Can it be possible that Castro is standing on the right? The history of the squabble has never been given out, and we know that in some past controversies Venezuela has escaped because the governments which were trying to bulldoze did not dare to push a weak or unjust case to an exertion of force.

BRAINSTORMS SCIENTIFICALLY CANNED.

As a new scientific agony, the talking picture will soon be in reach of all. Modern economics bring it from Paris before the scientific explanation reaches us. After undergoing 10 cents worth of it, it may be some relief to all concerned to hear from M. Darville, through "La Nature" in Paris that it is a triumph of science, after a long wrestle with direct currents, triphase alternating currents and differential gear, to reach the synchronism which makes the phonocinemetograph possible.

This may be Greek to us. But when living pictures made in France begin talking out of a microphone through a megaphone to American audiences, it is not Greek, but canned agony.

It must be felt to be imagined. The English language is not equal to suggesting it. Scientific Greek might help. But English and Greek together fall short of telling what the scientific triumph really means when shadows on a screen begin addressing us at the pitch of emotion, which, in the second-hand clothing business, is thought necessary for successful "barking."

If it is one of the great triumphs of science to store up passionate agony at a great central depot for distribution over the civilized world, what worse can science do for us after it has begun offering barking brainstorms, assorted, at from 5 to 10 cents a can?

When Kansas hears that Bryan ate four ears of corn at a sitting the Bryan drift out there is likely to become a stampede.

MR. TAFT'S MISTAKE.

One of the principal arguments urged by Mr. Taft against the Democratic plan of guaranteeing bank depositors is that, if adopted, it will promote recklessness and dishonesty on the part of bankers, because they would be relieved of responsibility to depositors, whose deposits would be guaranteed by a fund to which all the banks would contribute.

Without discussing the merits of the plan, we may question the soundness of Mr. Taft's logic. Wherein would a guarantee of bank deposits by all the banks collectively release any bank or individual banker of responsibility? Dishonesty and recklessness would be as costly to the banker, under the guarantee plan as it is now. He would be relieved of no criminal responsibility for criminal acts. Nor would the resources of the bank be protected by the guarantee fund. They would be used to their full extent to pay depositors and only the balance of losses would be paid from the fund. Failure through mismanagement or dishonesty would be as costly as ever to the bank, but would cost the depositors nothing.

Another point: Would not the obligation resting upon all the banks to maintain a fund for the guaranteeing of all bank deposits tend to improve the methods of banking and to increase the watchfulness of all banks with regard to every other bank? Would not the banks in a measure become guardians of each other, noting carefully every sign of mismanagement or dereliction and taking prompt steps to check either as a matter of self-protection? The common interest in the guarantee fund would logically tend to create a common desire to remedy defects in banking methods and to maintain the soundness of all banks.

It is highly probable that a feasible plan of guaranteeing bank deposits would eventually work to the great advantage of the banking business, because the assurance of safety for deposits would bring into the banks and into circulation a vast amount of money now hidden away, or placed in safety deposit boxes by timid persons who fear loss through bank failures.

So far as the practical effect of the guarantee plan is concerned, Mr. Taft, in his anxiety to meet an issue which promises to be very popular with thrifty people, seems to have been led into shallow thinking. He must shift his ground if he is to make headway against the Bryan argument.

The Democratic managers of the national and State campaigns can do really effective work for the Republicans by dipping into the senatorial contest in behalf of Senator Stone.

PROMPT WORK'S THE THING.

The Free Bridge Committee has put several questions relating to the responsibility for bridge delays to the Mayor, who is to answer them next week. Meanwhile the same questions are to be put to Mr. O'Reilly and other officials connected with bridge work, the answers to be given at some future date.

But while the questions are being answered the bridge work is waiting. We want the responsibility for past delays fixed, but we want more than that—the prompt beginning of work.

The devising of a plan to start the work would be a master stroke. Any official who is in any wise responsible for past delays can easily dispose of criticism on that score by buckling down to his work. This opportunity to change criticism into approval is open.

Secretary Wright's assurance to Mrs. Stewart that there is no intention on the part of the War Department to harass the Colonel may be described as a delicate bit of irony finely tempered to the sensibilities of a loving wife.

EDUCATING A NEW HUMORIST.

The biographies of John Davison Rockefeller, capitalist, published last year by authority to show Who's Who, are defective. They do not mention American humor among his products.

His letter to the assembled American humorists this week proves that he is one of them. It also shows that he values humor as a product above petroleum in producing light, combined with reconciling sweetness and reassuring smiles.

Still, last year's biography may be comprehensive for last year. The valuable faculty of humor is said to be educated only by contradiction. In that case, those who have their own way all the time, as soon as they demand it, can never be expected to produce a really valuable output of humor.

Education may do much for all of us. It reaches low and it reaches high in this country. The educated Rockefeller sense of humor may come late, but at his own estimate of its educational value, it may be worth more than it cost.

Richard Croker has been made an honorary burgess of Dublin. The roll of burgesses is limited to distingu'shed persons who have rendered service to Ireland or to the cause of liberty anywhere. We know, therefore, that Mr. Croker has served liberty somewhere. Was it in New York?

EXPELLING RECKLESS AUTOMOBILISTS.

The Automobile Club of America of New York is considering the expulsion of E. R. Thomas, the millionaire whose reckless speeding has brought him into unpleasant notoriety. More than one life has been ground out under the wheels of his machine and he himself is now in the hospital as the result of a smash-up which may cost him both his legs.

Mr. W. E. Scarritt, one of the Board of Governors of the club, commenting on the Thomas case, observes that a few automobilists misuse their right and run recklessly over the rights of others. The men who make trouble, he thinks, compose not more than 10 per cent of the automobilists and they are divided generally into two classes: the rich, reckless driver to whom a fine is no terror, and the chauffeur who tries to see how reckless he can be. The remedy he proposes ought to be effective in all states: "Let every driver receive a certificate from the Secretary of State. On conviction for a first offense, let the certificate be revoked for 15 days; second offense 30 days; third offense, revocation for a year and imprisonment. The rich culprit would be exceedingly careful not to lay himself liable to a second and third conviction."

The remedy lies with the automobilists themselves. If they adopt the measures suggested by Mr. Scarritt and procure the legislation in states where it is necessary, the death roll will be quickly reduced. In the interests of a lawful, healthful, exhilarating and perfectly legitimate sport, something ought to be done. And the automobilists themselves are the men who can do it most effectively.

An anti-cussing campaign is to be waged against "Uncle Joe" Cannon. Will he "stand pat" on profanity?

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

"Nosey" Neighbors.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I wish some reader who is a master of language and has been annoyed by "nosey" neighbors would read the riot act to them for their own good. I know of a woman who is crazy to find out whether two people who are respected and go about their own business are married or not. They are educated people and to think that such ignorant neighbors have the privilege to gossip and worry about their affairs is enough to crush the anger and create a pity wholly too good for such mortals.

NOT NOSEY.

Col. Stewart's Temperamentality.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I cannot agree with Esrog, who champions the cause of the temperamentally unfit Col. Stewart. If you stop and think you will see that the Colonel has nothing to complain about. It is his nature to cuss and he has been set right down there in the heart of a desert where he has the finest chance in the world to do it. Everywhere he turns he finds something to cuss. It ought to make him feel nearly as good as if he were in command of a regiment of rookies. I bet that if they assigned him to an oasis covered with beautiful flowers and purling streams he'd say "—— —— it to ——, this is the —— ——dest place I ever saw. There ain't nothing around here to cuss."

"Whitening" the Negro.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Sutton E. Griggs, negro author, is on the wrong road in advising his race how to escape from its burden of prejudice. His idea is that by a process of natural selection, light-colored negroes constantly mating with lighter individuals and the blacks and dark-colored avoiding marriage, the race would eventually become all white. It is a novel idea and will no doubt appeal to many readers of Griggs' book. But the process, as set forth by Griggs involves a method which might produce a race against which there would be infinitely more prejudice than exists against the negro race. Griggs says: "Through the white man, the weak negro woman and the tendency of the race so to marry as to lighten its hue, we will eventually be rid of the hated color, black." What white man does Griggs mean who, by mating with the weaker colored women would help to whiten the race? The vile white man, of course; the man who is without character and who would better, for the good of the human race, be restrained from reproducing his like. Such a man coupled with the weak coolred woman, would speedily ruin, if not utterly destroy any colored race attempting the Griggs program. Author Griggs has entirely missed the point in regard to race prejudice, which is not that color, but character, is the crucial test of any race. Given character, color will take care of itself. The Japanese have sufficiently proved this.

O'Fallon Park Tennis Courts.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Seeing two letters in the Post-Dispatch about the O'Fallon Park tennis courts, justice prompts me to answer same. While I, like all men who are industrious, have not time to watch the assignment of courts I have seen enough to satisfy me that all are treated as near alike as is possible, for who will not, when some thirty or forty persons are waiting, sometimes favor one or the other. More than that, if the keepers want to organize a knockers' club, I hardly think they will get more than 1 per cent of the 1600 permits that are issued and held by so many people, but it might be expected that out of so many one might find a few knockers.

A Plea for Working Women.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Recently there appeared in the Boston Transcript an editorial on the question of whether women who engage in a business life are entitled to consideration because of their sex. The question was further discussed by one or two other Eastern papers, and all the worthy editors seemed agreed that there should be "no sex in business." One of the editors laments the fact that women are in business at all, but nevertheless avers that since they are there, they should be amenable to all laws that govern masculine employes of the same class. This is a point on which I feel so strongly that I am tempted to open the discussion in the West, hoping to find those who will concur in a more humane view of the subject. In the first place, that I may not be misunderstood, let me say that in so far as ability is concerned, I agree with the editors, that a feminine applicant for a position should be equal to the man with whom she would compete. I have no patience with the woman who applies for a position on the ground that she needs it—the potent question is, does the position need her. This is cold philosophy, yet it is the philosophy that must govern in the world of commerce, and only in the rarest cases may one hope that justice will be tempered with mercy. But there is another side to the question we are considering. There is another way in which women are not, by nature, and cannot be equal to men, and that is in physical strength. The delicately balanced physical organism of a woman may endure for a time under the strain of fierce competition with men, but it is only for a time. And close observation leads one to the belief that it is the woman who, by reason of poise and intellectual development, is capable of positions of trust and responsibility, who is the first to go down under the stress. She performs her work with apparent ease, but she does so at the tremendous sacrifice of her vital forces. Sooner or later, she reaches the limit of her endurance. She may not die, but she is a physical wreck for the remainder of her life, unfitted alike for continuance in her work or for happy marriage. It is only rarely that one recovers completely from a nervous breakdown. The girl's employer learns of her pitiful condition, with a touch of sorrow, perhaps, and hunts for "another girl." He does not seem to realize that he has any responsibility in this wrecked life; that he, by his avaricious exacting, by his lack of consideration, and possibly by his erratic temper, has required of his valuable expert not only the "pound of flesh," but the very last unit of her vitality. I know whereof I speak. Not only was I an expert stenographer myself for a number of years, but as such I came in contact with a large number of the women of my class—in Minneapolis, in Chicago, in St. Louis, in Atlanta—it is the same everywhere in the big commercial centers, with the exception of some of the Southern employers, who have not yet been able to down their sense of chivalry toward women, even in business relations. Here is the point. Is it fair, is it just, for an employer to demand of his feminine employe the same long hours, the same arduous service that he does a man? Did he think when he hired her that she had the endurance of a man? Does he pay her the same wage as a man?

BANK ADVERTISING.

From the Deadwood (S. D.) Pioneer Times.

Bank advertising has been revolutionized the past 10 years. Fifteen years ago a banker who would have dared to advertise in any other way than with a stiff card giving the name of his bank, its officials and capital stock, would have been ridiculed as a monte-bank. It is a fact that in those days many country newspapers, had their bank advertisements stereotyped in the city and ran them year after year without change. The cost of this advertisement was regarded by the banker as a donation to the support of the editor and was expected to secure his active assistance in the election of candidates for office favored by the banker. Today, both East and West the majority of banks are doing "live" commercial advertising designed to convince the public that the bank has something to sell which it is to the interest of the public to buy. That article is bank standing and credit, stimulation of the habit of saving, advice in the matter of investment, having part in the world of industrial activity which is financed through the banks.

THE PEACE MAKER.

JUST A MINUTE FOR VERSE AND HUMOR.

Written for the Post-Dispatch by Ripley D. Saunders.

HO! FOR THE SWABENFEST!

OH, when the quaint Suablans, in ancient costume dress'd,
Do gather out at Lemp's Park for their yearly Swabenfest,
You'll see me there as big as life, it's too much fun to miss,
For they ain't no other show in all the town that equals this!
Their fabled huntin' of the hare, the "harvest column" tall,
The bloody siege of Stuttgart, the native games and all—
Say! It's just like old Suabia was lifted and set down,
To save the cost of travelin', right here in our own town!

So I'm a-goin' to be there, sure. I ain't no Deutscher man,
But put a stein before me and I'll do the best I can!
And I love to see these faithful folks rememberin' auld lang syne,
And the land they loved before they loved this land that's also mine.
Wherefore, I give you warnin'—I'm with 'em from the start,
And you're goin' to hear me shoutin' when they're fightin' 'round Stuttgart,
And if the katzenjammer's there, I'll get it with the rest,
And you'll know the reason plainly—I've been to the Swabenfest!

THE BETTING ODDS.

Benny Dick: Talk about "The Lady or the Tiger" problem—here's a Colorado woman who has to choose between giving up her husband or giving up $8000!

Celly Bate: Pahaw, man, that's easy—it's an 8000-to-1 shot against the husband!

AT FORT GRANT.

(Fort Grant, where Col. W. F. Stewart is in exile, is in ruins and alive with rattlesnakes.—News.)

COL. W. F. STEWART, U. S. A., made a buck-leap out of the front door of the commandant's house at Fort Grant to avoid an Arizona rattlesnake that was inclined to be too sociable.

He was confronted by a mounted orderly bearing dispatches.

The orderly had just passed the entire garrison force, consisting of William F. Nall, the caretaker, and William B. Martin, the negro cook.

"Sir," he said, "I have the honor to report that you are hereby commanded by the President of the United States to ride 90 miles in three days or lose your job."

The old artillery Colonel made a quick side-step out of the way of another rattler.

"I'll ride a hundred miles!" he cried hastily. Who in blazes wouldn't to get away from a garrison of rattlesnakes?"

"If you should change your mind, sir," said the orderly, "the alternative is that you walk 50 miles within the same time."

"I'll do it in less time!" exclaimed the veteran, executing another double-shuffle with a rattlesnake as vis-a-vis. "Me and these blamed snakes don't gee anyway!"

"Otherwise, sir," continued the orderly, "you are to be railroaded out of the service."

"Hooray!" exclaimed the Colonel. "Railroad me anywhere away from these infernal jim-jam serpents—I am ashamed to resign in the face of an enemy, you know. But go ahead on any plan that leaves an aching void among these rattlers in my place!"

The orderly disappeared.

And Col. Stewart was figuring out a line of retreat into his house that should carry him safely past the rattlesnakes.

"Will I ride 90 miles or walk 50?" he murmured. "Well, well, you just watch me—Ouch! Wow! That one nearly got me!"

After all, blind old Belisarius was lucky—he didn't live in a rattlesnake country.

THE FALL SHOPPER.

If you're knocked into a gutter
By a female catapult,
Please don't any protest utter,
'Twasn't really an insult,
Or intentional—don't worry,
Thinking such a foolish thing,
It's just her bargain-hurry—
Fall shopping's in full swing!

That revolt of untipped ship-waiters is a case of mutiny on the high "seize."

TREMBLE, HOUSEWIVES!

TREMBLE, housewives, there's danger in the air
For the clan of servant girls is organizing!
They're going to join the Union, you hear it everywhere,
And in every home there'll be a dread uprising!
The cook and the maid, they'll lead it, unafraid,
With the other help in sisterly communion—
O, lady of the house, be ye timid as a mouse,
For the servant girls are going to join the Union!

Tremble, housewives, you're up against it strong,
And you're headed on the road that leads to trouble!
If you want the help to work a day that's over eight hours long,
Why, you'll have to pay 'em overtime and double!
And their days off they'll claim on a contract for the same,
And they'll get 'em, too, by being in communion—
O, there's danger in the air, you can feel it everywhere,
For the servant girls are going to join the Union!

"THE MONEY CHANGERS."

Al Truist: That new story of Upton Sinclair's, "The Money Changers," is certainly a novel with a purpose.

Will Gamble: Sure—its purpose is to change a lot of money from the money-changers' pockets to Upton Sinclair's.

Those Oklahoma cut-ups who chained a cowbell to a bridegroom's neck evidently believed that the bride shouldn't be the only one to have a wedding ring.

WIDOW.—It is true that physicians' bills are last to be paid. When they are reasonable this is a great injustice. Human nature is so queer that a man may sometimes think his sufferings somehow compensate a physician.

HOPEFUL.—For oily nose, sulphate of zinc, 4 grains; compound tincture of lavender, 16 drops; distilled water, 2 ounces. Use as a lotion. Where the skin is extremely oily it is necessary to remove the oil by wiping the skin with a soft rag impregnated with benzine before using lotion.

A. B.—Fleas: Slice two or three cucumbers very fine; sprinkle heavily with salt, let stand over night; the next morning drain off all the liquor that has formed and sprinkle over the floor, walls and furniture infested. If thoroughly done, second application is unnecessary. (Fleas may live elsewhere than on animals.)

Q.—Preferred stock is so called because it is given preference in the assets and incomes of a corporation ahead of the common stock. This is usually specified on the stock certificates. Other points of difference occur with various issues. For instance, some specify that after 4 per cent is paid on the preferred stock the common stock shall receive a share of the remaining profits up to 4 per cent, and after this the preferred stock shall be paid up to 6 per cent, which is to be the limit. All profits after paying this rate then belong to the common stock. A number of railroad stocks have provisions limiting the dividend of the preferred stock, and many of the common stocks of these companies sell higher than the preferred because of paying a larger dividend or because of the prospect of getting a larger one. Preferred stocks in some instances do not possess the power to vote, but generally they do enjoy this right.

PET LIES OF HUSBANDS TO WIVES. No. 1

THE "FIRST AND ONLY LOVE."

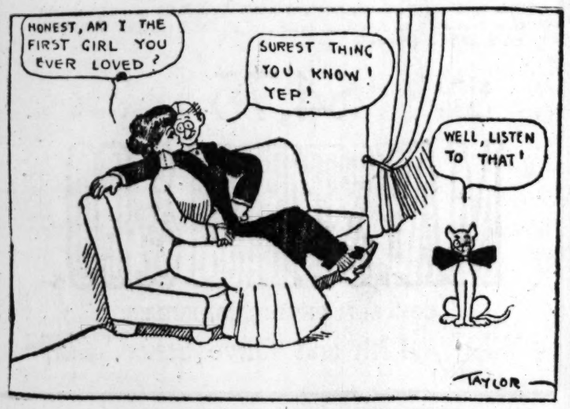

First of a Series of Twelve Articles From a Post Dispatch Writer on Men's Fabrications.

BY NIXOLA GREELEY-SMITH.

NIXOLA GREELEY SMITH

"ALL men are liars," said David. Perhaps this aphorism had something to do with the Psalmist's extraordinary popularity with women. For to this day it finds an echo in every feminine heart that has learned to beat more quickly at a man's footfall. King David contented himself with a simple statement. He did not attempt to analyze or reason about it. If he had, he might not have held his own sex solely accountable for its general tendency to prevarication. For though there may be here and there a man who lies for the sheer joy of it, the usual masculine teller of fairy tales lies because some woman expects—indeed, actually demands—it of him; wives want to believe certain things of their husbands, whether they be true or not. From the universal desire of womankind have arisen 12 stock lies which are apt to be told by the best of husbands. Not every man tells all the 12, but no man is without the weight of one of them upon his soul. Let us consider the one that is told oftenest, because there is the most demand for it. It is "The first and only girl."

"AM I THE ONLY GIRL YOU EVER LOVED?"

NO sooner have the fatal words fallen from the lips of the young man in love, and dazed and a trifle apprehensive he finds himself engaged to the purring mass of ruffles at his side, than the purring ceases for a moment and a voice that takes the answer for granted, says cozily: "Jack, dear, am I the only girl you ever loved?"

"You are the first and only girl!" Jack vows resolutely and untruthfully. He may swallow hard as he says it for the first time, but after a few months in marriage he has had so much practice that it falls as trippingly from his tongue as "What'll you have?"

Now and then, perhaps, in a burst of conjugal confidence his masculine boastfulness leads him to open the Blue Beard Chamber of his past a tiny crack.

He recalls a certain girl with whom he used to walk home from school sometimes.

"Was she pretty?" coos the siren at his side. "Tell me about her!" And the idiot tells. What a thrill there was in the lingering handclasp at the gate. How jealous he was of the red-haired fellow that lived next door to her. How—

But suddenly he stops. For in a lightning flash the face of the cooing siren changes to that of Nemesis herself. The new-made bride melts into hysterical wailing, through which he distinguishes vaguely this:

"But I thought—I thought—oh, I—you said—I was—you said I—was the only girl you ever—loved. Oh-h-h—that that you never—had—loved any-b-b-body b-b-but Me!"

And for half an hour he pets, cajoles, eats one by one and salted by his bride's tears the unwary words which have brought the catastrophe about.

"I never have loved anyone else," he declares stoutly. "You know that. I may have thought for a time that I loved other women, but the first time I looked into your blue eyes I knew it was not so—that you were the first, the only girl for me." After half an hour of this the sobbing ceases. Smiles once more hover round the lips of his divinity. A sadder husband, he for the moment thinks himself a wiser one.

But he isn't. The very next time he is given the matrimonial third degree it works as of old. The smiling eyes, the purring voice lure him to confidences. Once more the thunder rolls, the lightning flashes. And once more his little threadbare lie makes peace.

THE DEVIL .: .: .: .: By Franz Molnar

Written From the Oliver Hereford Version of the Play (Copyright, 1908, by Henry W. Savage, All Rights Reserved) by Albert Payson Terhune.

CHAPTER V.

"YOUR master is not up yet?" Olga stood in Karl's sitting-room, trying to appear at ease. Before her, respectful yet surprised, was the artist's servant.

"No, madam."

"Did—did any one leave a letter for him today?"

"No, madam!"

"Thank God!" murmured Olga. "I'm in time!"

She sat down and the old servant shuffled out of the room.

"You are up early after last night's gayeties," said a voice at her elbow. Olga started in alarm. The Devil was at her side.

"I have just delivered your letter to Karl," said he, blandly.

"Oh, what can I say to him? How can I explain that I did not mean"—

Karl swung open the door of his bedroom and came forward. Olga glanced up to the Devil for advice in the trying situation. He had vanished.

"Olga!" cried Karl, haggard and penitent. "I ought to go on my knees and beg your forgiveness for what I said and did last night. Can you ever"—

"No, it is I who need forgiveness. I—I— Oh, my letter has told you everything! I"—

"Your letter," said Karl, puzzled. "I received no letter from you."

"You didn't get my letter that"—

"No, madam," said the Devil's voice at her elbow; "I quite forgot to give it to him. Here it is now."

Before she could interpose he handed the artist an envelope.

"Karl," implored Olga, "destroy that letter unread, I beseech you."

Karl silently crossed to the grate and tossed the unopened envelope upon the red coals. Olga, unprepared for such prompt obedience, made an involuntary gesture to stop him. But it was too late. The paper was ablaze.

With a shrug and a bow the Devil walked out. Karl turned questioningly to Olga.

"Oh," she panted, "I would have given anything to have had you read that letter! Why did I make you destroy it?"

"Let me hear its contents, then, from your lips," he urged.

"No. It is dead. Its message died with it. And—I'm glad. Something in my heart makes me yearn to have you read it, and yet the better part of me is glad it is gone. Only the Devil himself could bring it back to existence now. Good-by, Karl. I shan't see you again. The loss of the letter was an omen. If I had it back I would give it to you with my own hands and abide forever by what I said in it. But it is gone forever, and with it all that I—Oh, good-by, Karl!"

She turned blindly to leave the room. In her path, directly in front of her, stood the Devil. Karl, springing forward to intercept her departure, almost collided with him.

"I thought you had gone forever!" growled the artist in disgust, glowering at his unwelcome guest. Then, unwilling to have his farewell to Olga profaned by his hated presence, Karl walked into the studio and slammed the door behind him.

"I'm so sorry," the Devil was saying to Olga in deep contrition, "but I've made such a foolish mistake. That letter I gave Karl—the one he burned—it wasn't a letter at all. It was my tailor's bill. Here is your letter."

Unbelieving, her face aglow, Olga seized the envelope, tore it open and gazed at the contents. Then, with a rapturous little cry, she rushed into the studio, calling:

"Karl! My letter! Here is my letter!"

The Devil tiptoed to the studio door, listened for an instant, his white face alight with a diabolical smile. Then, rubbing his long, lean hands together in high satisfaction, he chuckled happily:

"There you are!"

THE VISION OF SALOME

A Thrilling Heart Romance Which, Interpreted by Dancers, Is Fascinating New York and London. Written by Permission for the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyrighted, 1908, by Press Publishing Co. All rights reserved. Used by special arrangement with Morris Gest, Manager.)

CHAPTER I.

The Wonder Woman.

"SALOME! The Princess Salome!"

The newcomer, Caius, the Roman, turned at the whispered words and peered eagerly through the broad marble archway.

But the flood of light from the myriad scented torches that lined the Tetrarch's great banquet hall dazzled him and he moved a step or so nearer to see the more clearly.

His advance brought the young Roman to the foot of the low flight of marble steps leading up from the palace courtyard to the brightly lighted hall.

At once the long spears of two Nubian guards posted at the entrance barred his patch. He paused irresolute.

The youth whose whispered mention of Salome's name had roused the indolent Roman to such unwonted curiosity now came forward and touched Caius on the arm.

"Be not drawn too close to the flame, good Caius," he said lightly, "else those (with a nod toward the two gleaming spear points) may singe the wings of your adoration."

But Caius was in no mood for jest.

"I am a Roman, friend Halil," he sneered, and of the Praetorian rank. I have entry to the presence of Caesar himself. Yet here in your provincial Jerusalem it seems I am barred out of the banquet hall of Herod Antipas the Tetrarch. Truly, Rome will laugh when I tell this. Caesar himself may smile at the treatment of his envoy. And when Caesar smiles heads are apt to fall. Perchance it might be wiser for you, as captain of the guard, to give me leave to enter with my despatches."

Halil, the Syrian, bent his dark brows in perplexity.

The Revels of Herod.

"I mean no offense," said he, "nor does my master the Tetrarch. But I have already twice told you, Herod holds his birthday revels tonight. Not only his court, but the Roman Ambassadors and the chief priests of Israel are his guests. Had you arrived an hour earlier I doubt not a post of honor at his board would have been assigned you. But—as is Herod's wont—he gave command that none should disturb the feast from the moment of his seating until the signal for departure. I dare not, for your own sake as well as mine, disobey and let you pass. Pray believe me, no offense is intended. I but"—

"Yet, just now you said the Princess Salome entered the hall from her own apartments," urged Caius. "If the way be barred to a Roman envoy, why is it open to a mere Syrian Princess?"

The Captain's black eyes glowed. His thin face under the shimmering southern moonlight that made the court as bright as day, took on the look of one who worships at a shrine.

"The Princess!" he breathed. "Ah, that is different. She comes and goes as she will; even as does the soft wind of heaven; everywhere welcomed, never checked nor forbidden. Oppose God's breeze and His moonbeams and you can oppose the will of Salome. But no mortal can withstand her wishes. Not the Tetrarch himself."

"It appears," remarked Caius dryly, "that those same breezes and moonbeams have pierced your bronze helmet, O Halil! and smitten your brain with something very like adoration for your Tetrach's lovely stepdaughter. It is well I am discreet, else your love might bring you to the rack, or even perchance to the cross. I"—

A Veiled Threat.

"You overstep your rights as a guest!" sternly interposed Halil. "Here we do not speak lightly of women—least of all do we thus take on our lips the name of"—

"Of the daughter of Herodias," scoffed Caius. "My young provincial friend, you have much to learn. You seem to think your little province of Judea is the whole world, and that Jerusalem is Rome itself. You servants of Herod do well to cringe at the name of your master and of his family. But we Romans spea kas we choose when we chance to be in the provinces. If any are offended by my own words I have always a sharp-tongued friend here to take up my quarrel."

And his jeweled fingers rattled idly against the crusted hilt of his short sword. Halil's lips were set in a tight line and his eyes ablaze. Yet with a mighty effort he restrained his anger. Mistaking the Syrian's silence for cowardice, the Roman added, with a laugh:

"We, at Rome, keep fairly well apprised of all that goes forward here in Judea. When Herod the Tetrarch snatched the beautiful Herodias from his brother Philip, divorced her from Philip and married her himself, was Caesar ignorant of it? Not he. Yet it interested him not, so he spoke no word of reproof. When Herod threw that same Philip into the well of this courtyard and later strangled him, Caesar but yawned.

"These trifles mean little to him. In faith, he was far more entertained at hearing how Herodias won the heart of this Herod of yours and how, lately, Salome, the daughter of Herodias and Philip, threatens to outshine her mother in the eyes of the Tetrarch. There are even rumors of a second divorce, we are told. Perchance by this time next year, Salome may be Queen of"——

The Insult.

"You lie!"

The words forced themselves explosively from between Halil's set lips. He was trembling, and his hand clutched his sword hilt so convulsively that the knuckles were white.

The bronzed face of Caius lost its bantering look. He stepped toward the Syrian cold, deadly calm.

"In the provinces," he said, with no trace of excitement, "such words may pass as mere pleasantries. In Rome they call for death."

He struck Halil lightly across the face with his gauntlet, stepped back and drew his own sword.

"Will you pay for that insult?" he asked, "or will you hide for protection behind the skirts of your adored Salome? If"——

He said no more. Prudence, hospitality, duty, all cast to the winds, the young Syrian was upon him with drawn sword. A burst of laughter and music floated through the doors throwing off a shower of tiny red of the banquet hall.

The two men's weapons clashed, sparks, while the swift moving blades flashed silver white in the moonshine.

Foot to foot, silent, murderous, the enemies fought, dealing lunge, thrust and parry with lightning speed, while their clashing, grinding steel rang out the eternal war hymn of the ages.

A group of soldiers at the far end of the courtyard, near the outer gate, heard the noise of battle and hurried forward at a run to interfere. As they ran their officer shouted:

"Halil! In the name of all the gods, hold! It is death to draw sword in the palace of the Tetrarch! Hold! Do you wish to be slain by torture?"

The courtyard was wide. Before the first of the soldiers could reach the infuriated combatants, a downward slash of Halil's had struck upon the Roman's blade like a hammer upon an anvil. The sword of Cajus broke in three pieces and fell tinkling to the pavement, while the Roman, his arm numb to the shoulder, reeled back defenseless. In an instant Halil was at him like a maddened tiger.

Sword to Sword.

"In the name of the Princess whom you insulted!" shouted the Syrian, shortening his arm to drive the sword through the other's throat.

Caius shut his eyes and stoically awaited death. But Halil's blow never fell. Instead Caius heard the Syrian gasp in wonder and step back.

Then a faint, exquisite perfume seemed to fill the whole place. A breath of scented air brushed Caius' face and the soft swish of silken garments fell upon his ears. Dully he opened his eyes.

There in the moonlight before him stood a woman, young, slender, infinitely beautiful. Her gauzy, jewel-starred robes revealed rather than concealed a figure as graceful as a nymph's, as sinuous as a panther. Two great, shadowy eyes like pools of troubled moonshine looked out on him beneath a screen of long, dark lashes.

"Venus!" gasped the Roman, awed, almost terrified by the weird loveliness of the apparition. "Venus come to earth to bless happy mortals with her gaze! Or did the provincial's sword strike home, and am I awakening in Paradise? In faith, if every goddess"——

A peal of silvery laughter broke in upon his dazed rhapsody. Caius breathed more easily. So the vision was human!

"You Are Salome?"

"Venus and all the goddesses of Rome would doubtless be grateful for such reverence," said the girl carelessly. "But it grows wearisome to the daughter of Herodias. Have done!"

"You are Salome? The Princess Salome?"

At the Roman's query the girl, who had been moving languidly away, paused, and for the first time glanced at him with something like real interest. She came slowly back and asked in imperious jest:

"Are you from the British Isles or from the wilderness of Germany, that you did not recognize me? Yes, I am Salome. And you are a Roman who will presently be killed by torture for fighting in the palace courtyard. You and my adoring slave Halil," indicating the Syrian with a nod of her dainty head. "I shall be almost sorry to see Halil slain in such manner. It amuses me to watch his dumb gaze follow me ever as a dog's its master."

"Princess!" muttered Halil, finding his voice and remembering at last to sheathe the sword he was still unconsciously clutching.

"You would beg your life?" queried Salome. "Well (disregarding his vehement gesture of denial), it may please me to grant it. No blood has been shed and the Tetrarch and his guests are too noisy in their drink to have heard the fray. But if blood had fallen the Tetrarch would have crucified you. He will allow no drop of blood to stain this pavement, for a soothsayer foretold it would bring him misfortune. You are pardoned."

She threw the words at Halil with a careless scorn that stung the young captain to the quick. Yet he sprang forward, fell on one knee and kissed the little white hand that hung idly at Salome's side. She looked down at him in faint curiosity.

The Voice of Mystery.

"You love me," she murmured, "and many others love me. I have seen women start and redden at touch of a lover's hand. I would I could be so moved. Yet no man has ever made my heart beat one throb the faster. I must go to my grave despising all men and wearied by their foolish love word. I wonder how it feels to be mad with love for anyone. And," with a little sigh of comic despair, "I shall never know."

She was again moving toward the banquet hall. As if to greet her a wild volume of laughter pealed forth from within the lighted room.

"No," she went on, half to herself, "I shall never know love. No man on earth can make my heart beat the faster."

As she spoke a deep, sonorous voice broke forth as in answer, seemingly from the ground beneath her very feet.

"Who hath warned you!" it groaned. "Who hath warned you from the wrath to come?"

Salome halted, thunderstruck, both hands clasped above her wildly throbbing heart.

CHAPTER II.

The Girl and the Prophet.

"WHAT—what was that?" cried Salome, recovering from her first state of surprise, and half angry at herself that the voice of an unseen man could awaken in her soul so unwonted a wave of emotion.

"What was it?" she repeated, imperiously, turning to the Roman, who was stooping to recover the jeweled hilt of his broken sword.

"Who can say?" answered Caius, as ignorant as herself. "The Syrian moonlight has bewitched all things tonight. First, a vision from Olympus floats between me and death. Next I hear the fairest woman in all the earth declare she is dead to love. Then from the solid ground beneath us comes this voice—a voice as of a god. Truly, it is an omen. The words spoke of 'Warning,' it seemed. They said"—

"I heard them," interrupted the girl, "and the voice was mortal; though like no mortal voice I ever heard. But no mortal could speak from beneath the ground."

"The words," broke in Halil, "came not from the ground, but from the dry well, on whose curb Your Highness is leaning."

The Voice.

"From the well?" echoed Salome, recoiling with a little shudder. "It is impossible! My father, Philip the Tetrarch, lay imprisoned for a year at the bottom of this well. Yet, long ago, Herod slew him. The dead cannot speak. Nor was the voice his."

Halil shifted his position, in embarrassment. The compelling gaze of the Princess was upon him and seemed to draw the reluctant words by force from his lips.

"It is ill to speak of this," he said, slowly. "Nor does the Tetrarch wish it blazoned abroad that the underground prison has a new occupant. Yet"——

"Speak on!" insisted Salome. "It is I who command it. When Herod, the Tetrarch, imprisoned my father, his brother, that he might be free to wed my mother, he placed him in that well because it was not right that one of royal blood should be in a prison that had held men of low degree. Why should another captive now abide in the cell consecrated by royalty? Surely, no hostile prince has fallen into Herod's power; else I should have heard of it. Who occupies the cell? What voice was"——

"The voice of one crying in the wilderness! Repent, for the Kingdom of Heaven is at hand!"

The words, deep, majestic, rolled up from the black depths of the inclosed cistern; and again, at this sound, Salome felt a strange thrill sweep through her.

A Palace Mystery.

"Who is it?" she demanded of Halil. "Speak!" she cried, stamping her tiny foot in impatience.

"I dread to speak a name Your Highness must loathe to hear," faltered the young Syrian. "The captive in yonder well is no Prince. Not even a noble of the court. Nor is he a common malefactor."

"Who then?" queried the girl, curiously. "What man has been deemed by Herod worthy to lie in the cell of my father. Philip? If not a Prince, then"——

To be continued in the Post-Dispatch tomorrow.

GERTRUDE HOFFMAN, THE FAMOUS SALOME.

"You love me? Yes, and many others love me!"

FATHER.

SMALL Lillian's father was very homely, and one day she said: "Mamma, why did you marry papa?"

"Because I loved him, dear," was the reply.

"Say, mamma," continued Lillian, "love will make us women do anything, won't it?"—Philadelphia Record.

A FATHER, whose looks are not such as to warrant the breaking up of all existing statues of Apollo, tells this on himself:

"My little girl was sitting on my knee facing a mirror. After gazing intently at her reflection for some minutes she said:

"'Papa, did God make you?'

"'Certainly, my dear,' I told her.

"'And did he make me, too?'—taking another look in the mirror.

"'Certainly, dear. What makes you ask?'

"'Oh, I don't know. Seems to me he's doin' better work lately.'"—Harper's Bazar.

FERN LEAVES A FOOD PRESERVATIVE.

AN American Consul reports that in parts of England fern leaves have long been employed in packing fruit, fresh butter, etc., for market. Formerly grape leaves were used for this purpose, but the fern leaf is said to be far superior to that of the vine for keeping articles wrapped in it fresh and wholesome. The fishermen of the Isle of Man pack their fresh herrings in fern, which keep the fish fresh until it eaches market. Potatoes packed in ferns keep many months longer than those packed in straw. Fresh meat also is preserved for a protracted period when swathed in fern leaves. It is said that the preservative quality of the fern is due to the large quantities of salt in its composition. The strong odor of the fern also repels larvae, maggots, etc.—Leslie's Weekly.

NONUNION CHAUFFEUR NOT PERMITED TO SERVE BRYAN

Owner of Automobile Hurries to Station in Topeka and Takes Candidate for Ride.

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 28.—William J. Bryan was not allowed to ride in a nonunion automobile when he arrived in Topeka. The machine which was to drive him to his hotel is owned by Dr. Anton Smith, an official of an automobile company, and there is a strike on at his factory. A nonunion man was handling the machine because of the absence of union men from the Smith works.

In the crowd waiting to welcome Mr. Bryan were several union men. One of them called F. S. Thomas, chairman of the Shawnee County Central Committee, and told him that a nonunion man was going to drive Mr. Bryan to the hotel. Thomas promptly got busy. He called up Dr. Smith on the telephone and told him about it.

"I haven't got a union man just now," said Smith, "but I'll drive the machine myself."

He hustled down to the station, took charge of the car and acted as chauffeur for Mr. Bryan and Theodore A. Bell.

Grigsby was supposed by his closest friends to be a bachelor. The plaintiff claims that she was Grigsby's common-law wife for years. Her maiden name, she says, was Stallcup.

JOSEPH LEITER AND BRIDE INVADE ENGLISH SOCIETY

They Travel Without Giving Names and May Cause Fine for Steamship Line.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Copyright, 1908, by the Press Pub. Co. (New York World.)

PLYMOUTH, England, Aug. 28.—Joseph Leiter of Chicago and Washington and his bride landed here last night from the steamship Kaiserin Auguste Victoria, which sailed from New York last Thursday noon. Their names were not on the list of passengers, an omission which Mr. Leiter explains was prompted solely by a desire to escape the attention of newspaper men, both in New York and in England.

But there was a more serious disregard of formalities. The names do not appear either in the list of declarations of aliens, which the British laws require. That omission renders the Hamburg-American Steamship Co. liable to a heavy fine.

Mr. Leiter will introduce his bride, the daughter of Lieutenant Colonel John R. Williams of Washington, into English society during the three weeks he has planned to spend on the shooting grounds of Great Britain, over which the aristocracy is now scattered. When their visiting in England and Scotland is finished Mr. and Mrs. Leiter intend to go to Paris for a stay of some length, after which they will return to America.

Photograph Showing Our First Shipment of "STAR BRAND" SHOES.

We have just added to our already large gents' furnishing goods store a complete Shoe Department for men.

For some time we have contemplated this addition. Many of our good customers often wanted to know why we didn't sell shoes?

Our desire has been to get a line of shoes that would meet with the approval of all our patrons, and as a consequence we carefully considered several of the leading advertised shoes for men.

After a critical examination we decided that the best shoes we could possibly secure were "R. J. & R." $5.00 shoes for men; "Patriot" $4.00 shoes for men and "Pilgrim" $3.50 shoes for men. All made in the big specialty factories of Roberts, Johnson & Rand Shoe Co., St. Louis, and their famous "Star" trade-mark is stamped on every heel.

Our new Shoe Department is now open. Every shoe is new and the patterns are the very latest and most approved. We are showing the new advance season Fall styles.

"Star Brand" Shoes are made from only the best of materials. None but the most expert shoe workmen design and construct them, and the equipment in these high-grade specialty factories is the most modern. Hence you can see why "STAR BRAND SHOES ARE BETTER."

You are cordially invited to visit our new Shoe Department. Mr. Ike Hopkins, who is well known to St. Louisans as one of her best shoe men, is in charge.

POST-DISPATCH RECORD OF MARKETS

STOCKS RECEDE SLIGHTLY NEAR CLOSING HOUR

Market Is Fractionally Lower After Developing Early Strength.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28, 10 a. m.—The opening prices of stocks this morning were in the same direction as Thursday's close. Union Pacific opened at 163 which is its highest figure for this year, and Southern Pacific started at 104⅞, the high record in its history. Canadian Pacific, Pennsylvania and Rock Island preferred were unchanged.

Reading was the strongest stock in the list at the opening. It is now at its highest point of the year. Advances in other rail stocks ranged from ⅛ to ½.

Atchison, B. & O. and N. Y. C. receded fractionall, but the losses in each instance were inconsequential. All the industrials opened higher.

Smelting was particularly bullish, its initial quotation being 1¼ points above its close. Anaconda, Amalgamated and the Steel stocks were ¼ higher each.

At the end of the first half hour the market was strong. Nearly all the prominent stocks registered advances.

Southern Pacific gained ⅛, Union Pacific ¼, Rock Island preferred ⅝, Reading and St. Paul ½ each, Great Northern ⅜ and B. & O. ¼ point.

Missouri Pacific slumped badly, losing 1½ points in the first half dozen transactions.

The industrials were firm, but were mostly unchanged. Consolidated Gas was very active and gained 1 point.

Americans in London were steady around parity.

There was some irregular movements in the prominent rail stocks in the forenoon, some gaining, others receding, and several at parity.

The industrials, on the other hand, were all higher.

Consolidated Gas contained its activity and moved up 2½ points, Sugar gained ⅞, Amalgamated ¾ and the Steels and National Lead ½ each.

B. & O., B. R. T. and Missouri Pacific lost ½ each and Southern Pacific receded ⅝.

Canadian Pacific, the Hill stocks, Pennsylvania and Union Pacific were unchanged at noon. St. Paul, New York Central and Rock Island preferred advanced ⅜ each. A bench warrant was issued Thursday by Judge Moyers in the City Court against Jacob Szimkus, charging him with violating an injunction of the Court. The complaint was made by Fishbein Bros., bakers. Some time ago Szimkus sold a bakery to the Fishbeins and agreed not to go into the bakery business again within a year. The Fishbeins got an injunction later on their allegations that Szimkus was preparing to open a bakery across the street from them. He is charged with violating this order.

Modern Miller Crop Outlook.

Following is the Modern Miller crop outlook: So little soft winter wheat is obtainable from farmers that interior millers are turning to the markets for supplies. This is especially noted in sections where the crop is unusually short. Some farmers are feeding wheat to livestock, finding it cheaper than high-priced corn.

St. Louis Money Market.

Call money in St. Louis is ruling at the lowest rates in a great many years. It is estimated that banks situated in the interior have placed on demand paper to various firms, corporations and individuals, not less than $2,500,000 at these quotations. This feature of the local money status is beginning to attract attention. This is all the more true owing to the fact that it is claimed some of the St. Louis banks do not adapt themselves quickly enough to changes in actual conditions. Borrowers in some instances claim that, while demand loans in New York were down to 1½ per cent, St. Louis banks were asking their clients 4½ and 5 per cent, which, of course, is entirely out of line. This has given a number of the interior institutions a great opportunity and at the same time has relieved reserve correspondents at this point of paying interest on balances in any easy money market.

WHEAT RANGES VERY NARROWLY

Trading Is on Moderate Scale, but Moderate Gains Are Retained.

An undertone of strength was again manifest in the local wheat market Friday, trading being somewhat more active, with the sentiment still very generally bullish. Prices ranged rather narrowly, but maintained moderate advances. Final prices were a shade to ⅛@¼c higher for the day.

There was unexpected strength at Liverpool, the close there being ⅜@⅝d higher, which, together with the smaller exports from Argentine than expected, caused a firm opening. The movement of spring wheat has apparently begun in earnest now, receipts in the Northwest showing large increases and comparing bearishly with those of last year. This, however, was generally considered to be offset by the continued bullish situation in regard to supplies, both here and abroad. Stocks in all positions are very seriously depleted, with cash wheat in strong demand at premiums over the near futures. The situation was also strengthened by the continued tendency of farmers in the winter wheat belt to decline to sell, country acceptances being very small.

The weather in the Northwest and Canada continues rather cold, but temperatures are not low enough to cause danger to the crop right now. Although the business in the local pit showed some improvement, it is still rather moderate, and prices during the early part of today's session moved slowly, though the fractionally higher levels were preserved.

September wheat opened ⅜c higher, at 95c, was offered down to 94⅝@94¾c, recovered to 95c and later sold at 94¾c. December wheat opened ⅛@⅜c higher, at 95¼c, declined to 95⅛c, fluctuated between 95⅛c and 95⅜c, sold as low as 95⅛@95¼c, was bid up to 95⅝c and sagged to 95¼@95⅜c.

Argentine shipments of wheat were 952,000 bu, against 224,000 bu last week and 400,000 bu a year ago.

Estimated world's shipments Monday are about 3,200,000 bu of wheat, of which Europe will take about 2,800,000. Last week 7,213,000. Last year, 8,744,000. Arrivals into United Kingdom about 3,200,000 bu. Estimates moderate changes on passage.

Coburn's report of Kansas crops as forwarded by Frank King of Toledo, says: August State report estimates wheat crop 73,000,000 bu, against 74,000,000 bu last year. Government August report indicated 76,000,000 bu and year ago 66,000,000. Acreage, 6,834,000. Corn condition 68, year ago 74, when the crop was 145,000,000 bu. Government August condition, 76; acreage, 7,052,000.

Broomhall estimates wheat crop of the Australian commonwealth, according to last official report, at 40,000,000 bu and a year ago officially at 66,000,000.

Griffiths, Williams & Co., Liverpool, in a letter to W. P. Anderson say: The German harvest is progressing favorably and it is expected that the crop will turn out nearly 18,000,000 quarters. This will undoubtedly necessitate a heavy import, though they are acting as if they would not require any. The news from Russia is as bad as possible. We have a letter today in which the writer says that the winter crop is practically nonexistent and that the spring crop has been damaged so much that he anticipates little if any export this season. Italy continues to buy liberally and will require a considerable amount of foreign wheat this season, so much so that it is quite on the cards that the import duties will be considerably reduced. The question of price appears to rest entirely with America. Europe will have to go there for very large quantities and the producer is in a position to dictate prices for some time to come.

Secretary Frank Fowler of the Northwest Grain Dealers' Association, estimates Canadian wheat crop of the Northwest at 107,184,000 bu as yield of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

The Minneapolis cash market, under the heavy receipts, ruled weak. Stocks at that market decreased 185,000 bu for the week. Minneapolis cars were 378, against 60 last year; Duluth 91, against 9 last year, and Winnipeg 85, against 40 last year. Duluth stocks decreased 200,000 bu for the week.

The late trading was extremely dull. Some disposition to sell was caused by the weak cash markets in the Northwest and the lack of outside speculation, but values were supported by the light supplies, the shorts in September learning that they will have to pay high prices in order to deliver. Prices eased off, but showed a steady tone at the close, with values still slightly above the previous day's finals. September wheat closed at 94⅝@⅞c bid, December wheat at 95⅛c bid and May wheat at 99¼c sellers.

Cash wheat was in light supply and under a fair demand ruled firm.

Primary receipts of wheat were 965,441 bu, with shipments of 514,743 bu, and local receipts were 87,738 bu, with shipments of 47,920 bu.

Broadstreet reports the exports of wheat and flour for the week at 4525,000 bu, and today's clearances were 257,000 bu.

Corn shared the general dullness of the pit, prices moving slowly under a light trade. The weather for corn is favorable, but quite a number of damage reports were forwarded and sentiment was generally bullish on the very light supplies. Receipts were small and the cash inquiry at most points good. Offerings of futures were light and final prices ⅛@¼c to ⅜c higher for the day. Cash corn was in good demand and strong. Cables on corn closed ⅜d higher.

Argentine shipments of corn were 1,093,000 bu. Exports of corn for the week were 39,091 bu and today's clearances 5000 bu.

Primary receipts of corn were 518,205 bu, with shipments of 445,318 bu, and local receipts were 50,885 bu, with shipments of 32,410 bu.

There were comparatively few sales of oats, but the tone was steady. Closing prices were unchanged to ¼c higher for the day. Cash oats were firm. Oats clearances were 3000 bu.

Primary receipts of oats were 704,242 bu, with shipments of 386,478 bu, and local receipts were 97,650 bu, with shipments of 40,470 bu.

FLOUR—Receipts were 7310 bbls.; shipments, 9800 bbls. Quote soft winter flour, patents, $4.40@4.65; straights, $4.10@4.25; extra fancy, $3.84@4 in wood; hard, jute sasks, patent, $4.40@4.60; straight, $4.10@4.25; clears, $3.25@3.60; low grade, $2.75@3.10; spring patents, $3.25@5.50 in jute.

HAY—Receipts were 675 tons local and 775 tons through; shipments, 210 tons. Quote timothy, choice, $12@12.50; No. 1, $10.50@11.50; No. 2, $8.50@9.50; No. 3, $5@7; no grade, $3@4. Clover, mixed, choice, $9.50@10.50; No. 1, $8.50@9.50; No. 2, $7@8; clover hay, No. 1, $10@14; No. 2, $7@8.50.

St. Louis Bond Market.

Some of the banks are beginning to inquire about short-term securities, and evidently are beginning to turn to the bond market as a relief from the absent commercial paper supply. There is a good brisk market for such brief issues as mature prior to March 1, 1909, among which may be mentioned Lackawanna, Steel 5s, Union Electric Light and Power 5s, St. Louis Merchant's Bridge 6s and several others, mainly equipment issues.

LATEST LIVESTOCK.

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., Aug. 28.—Estimated receipts today compare with a week and a year ago as follows:

	Today.	Week ago.	Year ago.
Cattle	3,000	2,600	4,200
Hogs	5,000	4,500	7,100
Sheep	1,500	1,400	1,100
Horses and mules	100	150	200

NATIVE CATTLE—Of the 1000 native cattle on offer there were but few steers. Quality was fair, with a load selling at $6.10, and several loads of medium kinds at $4.40@4.70. Trade was steady. The butcher market was slow and steady, with cows at $3.50, heifers at $5, calves $7.50 and bulls at $3.50.

The stocker and feeder trade ruled dull and offerings were hard to negotiate at steady prices.

SOUTHERN CATTLE—Trade ruled active and offerings sold fully as high as yesterday. Quality of both steers and cows was reasonably good, though there were no strictly toppy kinds on offer.

Among the sales were steers at $3@4.10; cows at $2@3.30; mixed cattle, at $2.75@3; bulls at $2.65, and calves up at $6.10.

HOGS—The hog market opened active, with a moderate supply on sale. Early prices were 10@15c higher than yesterday, a few select hogs selling at $7.05, while the bulk of the medium and good hogs sold at $6.65@6.90. Shippers were the best buyers and secured the hogs around the top of the market, while the packers waited and later got their hogs at 5@10c higher prices than yesterday.

One load of good, smooth hogs sold to the packers at $6.92½, but they got the bulk of their hogs at $6.65@6.75. What hogs the butchers bought cost them $6.85@6.95. Grassy pigs and lights were but little or no better. Quite a few pigs sold at $3@4, while fair pigs and lights sold at $4.25@5.25, and right good lights $5.50@6.25. The market closed quiet, but the desirable hogs were all sold.

SHEEP—A small supply of sheep arrived, and while there was no improvement on sheep of any kind, good lambs were 15@25c higher, the best bringing $6 for the first time this week. Compared with the fore part of the week, lambs are fully 40c higher and sheep 10@15c higher. Good lambs sold at $5.50@6, medium $5@5.40, fair $4.25@4.85 and culls $3@4. Mutton sheep sold at $4@4.25, best breeding ewes $4.50@5, fair, $4@4.40, mixed stockers $3@3.90 and bucks $2@2.50.

HORSES AND MULES—The horse market today had the usual latter-week-end appearances of quietness. A good clearance of supplies was realized this week and values generally are quoted steady on drafters, Eastern and Southern chunks and qualitied drivers. Total receipts for the period approximate 1750 head.

Mule prices are subject to fluctuating basis. Foreign demand is narrow and local dealers are rather timid buyers in the commission alleys. Most of the interests along the line are awaiting developments in the cotton situation and are not at all anxious to stock up with mules for the Southern trade until something definite transpires in this direction.

INDEPENDENT STOCKYARDS.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 28.

CATTLE—The cattle market opened steady at yesterday's close, closing on the same basis. More butcher cattle are needed in order to supply the demand. Milk cows are selling from $25 to $45, steers from $3.50 to $6.65, cows and heifers $2.10 to $5.16.

HOGS—With light receipts the hog markets opened fully 10c higher than yesterday's close. Best butchers and good weight shippers sold readily at the advance, and packers showed more inclination to do business than for several days. They purchased quite a number of the mixed kinds and the pens were cleaned early.

The bulk of the best hogs sold at $6.75 to $6.95, while packers paid up to $6.75 for some, they secured quite a string at $6.40 to $6.60. The market closed easy.

BANK GUARANTY GOOD FOR ALL, ARGUES BRYAN

Nominee Contends That Protected Deposits Will Increase Circulation.

OKLAHOMA AS PROOF

Tells Kansans How System Has Worked There for Increased Confidence.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 28.—Both depositors and bankers will profit if the Democratic plan for guaranty of bank deposits is enacted into law, according to William J. Bryan, who spoke last night on the deposit guaranty plank of the Democratic platform.

Using the operation of the bank deposit guaranty law in Oklahoma as an example, Mr. Bryan said that all classes of people would profit by the same system applied nationally because everybody would feel confidence in the banks, money now kept in hiding and drawing no interest would be placed in banks where it would earn interest for the depositors and at the same time increase the amount of money in circulation.

The bankers would profit by the increased deposits, Mr. Bryan said, and by the greater care they would exercise to keep reckless banks out of business.

He pointed to the experience of Oklahoma where after its guaranty law became effective the deposits of the banks taking advantage of the law increased $4,237,765.22 between December and May and the deposits of banks which didn't join in the guaranty fund decreased $1,101,807.86.

Depositors Sought Guaranty.

He said that these figures meant that many persons withdrew their money from banks which did not have guaranteed deposits and placed it in banks where the guaranty prevailed.

This fact, he contended, proved that the public do not feel complete confidence in unguaranteed banks. The large amount of money kept in hiding instead of being placed in banks was further proof of the same condition, he said.

To show that the guaranty plan increased confidence he referred to the two failures that have taken place in Oklahoma since the guaranty law became effective.

The banking board at once took charge of the banks, he said, and in a few minutes was ready to pay depositors in full. When word was sent to the farmers who had deposits to come and get their money, they replied that they would when they had time.

Guaranty Fund Reimbursed.

The money to pay the depositors was taken from the guaranty fund created by a tax on all the banks. The fund was then reimbursed from the sale of the assets of the failed banks.

Answering Mr. Taft's criticism that the system could not be applied nationally without getting State and national banks tangled up in constitutional questions of States' rights, Mr. Bryan said it would be easy to perfect a system by which State banks could take advantage of the system the same as national banks.

Mr. Bryan answered Mr. Taft's charge that the guaranty system would be merely taxing honest bankers to pay for the recklessness of dishonest bankers by saying that the same argument could be urged against any kind of insurance.

Careful persons would not have to pay so much for fire insurance, he said, if it were not for the careless ones who cause fires.

Denies Reward for Dishonesty.

He denied that the guaranty would be an encouragement to reckless banking. The same safeguards would continue, he argued. Bankers would still be just as liable civilly and criminally for their errors. Furthermore the care that would be taken by bankers to keep their ranks clean would be increased under the guaranty system.

Mr. Bryan insisted that the bankers would profit by the system but even if they did not, he said, the welfare of the depositors must be considered first. They number 15,000,000, he said, to the 1,500,000 stockholders and their interests are therefore paramount.

They have as much right to have security for their deposits, he contended, as has the Government, Federal, State and city, which always demands security for its deposits in banks.

Calls Republicans Aristocrats.

In conclusion Mr. Bryan said:

"Why has the Republican party been so quick to respond to the demands of Wall street and so slow to yield to the demands of the masses?

"There are two reasons: First, the Republican party has allowed itself to become the servant of the favor-seeking corporations, and, second, too many Republican leaders look at questions from the aristocratic standpoint, the standpoint of the few—rather than from the Democratic standpoint, the standpoint of the many.

"They legislate upon the theory that society is suspended from the top, and they fail, therefore, to understand either the evils that afflict the body politic, or the remedies that are needed.

"The Democratic party, viewing questions from the standpoint of the whole people, easily sees that which Republican leaders do not discover, and its remedies begin with the relief of the average man. This is the secret, if secret there be, of the primacy of our party in matters of reform.

Democracy Like Solomon.

"When Solomon was invited to choose what he would be asked for an understanding heart, that he might discern between the good and the bad, and he was told that, because he had chosen wisdom rather than riches or long life he should have, not only wisdom, but riches and length of days as well.

"And so when a party determines to seek first that which benefits the common people, it finds that in acting in the interest of the common people it also promotes the welfare of the smaller classes which rest upon the masses, for when the producers of wealth prosper, their prosperity is shared by every element of society."
